POW Camp Rescue Bid Fruitless

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers guarded by U.S. helicopter gunships, raided a suspected prisoner of war camp inside Cambodia where 20 Americans were believed held but found it empty, Vietnamese sources said today.

The raiding party, however, captured 30 enemy soldiers, the sources reported. The raiding party was led by Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri, leader of South Vietnam's Cambodian campaign last spring.

The raid took place Sunday and lasted three hours.

"It worked perfectly," said one officer. "We suffered no casualties."

The raid was based on intelligence that American prisoners were being held in an area west of the Cambodian town of Mimot along Highway 7. Mimot is 75 miles northwest of Saigon and about five miles inside Cambodia.

The sources said a fleet of South Vietnamese helicopters landed about 300 paratroopers with U.S. helicopter gunships escorting them.

American ground advisers accopanied the paratroopers to the border.

The operation recalled the unsuccessful raid Nov. 21 by helicopter-borne American commandos on the Son Tay prisoner of war camp 20 miles west of Hanoi in North Vietnam. Elite, highly trained soldiers made both raids.

In both cases, they found no American prisoners as expected but the operations were carried off with precision.

From time to time, there have been intelligence reports that Americans captured in South Vietnam were held in border camps in Cambodia. The number was never believed to be large.

Sources would not say whether the camp in Cambodia had been recently occupied or whether it had been hastily abandoned.

Three-Year Term For Jail Break

BENTON—Henry Watson, 22, Sikeston, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary Monday for attempting to break out of the Scott county jail on Nov. 15.

The jail break occurred when Watson and jailmate, James Schakleford, Sikeston, sawed through bars. They were forced back inside the jail by Deputy Sheriff Jack Stewart, who fired a warning shot as they attempted to come out the front door.

Watson was in jail on a parole violation in connection with the shooting of a brother in Sikeston. He also was being investigated for writing two bad checks in Sikeston. He was not tried for these offenses.

Judge Marshall Craig sentenced him.

Dexter Water and Sewer Rates Raised

By BRENDA MOCK

DEXTER—Water rates were raised $1.10 per 1,000 gallons and sewer rates were raised a minimum of 36 cents per month by the Dexter city council last night.

The average user of water and sewer facilities will pay approximately 87 cents more per month.

The previous water rates were 55 cents per 1,000 gallons bringing the current rate to $1.65. The previous sewer rates were a minimum of 18 cents per month bringing the current sewer rates to a minimum of 54 cents per month.

The council lowered the minimum amount of water being used per month from 3,000 gallons to 2,000 gallons.

Mayor Willis Connor justified the raise in rates by explaining the city needs a new fire truck, a new fire station on the north side of the railroad tracks and a new water plant.

He said the old one pumps only 75 per cent of its capacity.

R. E. Atkins of Dexter asked the council for renewal of his liquor and tobacco license. The council renewed it.

Connor asked the council to consider getting a new meeting table. The council decided that the old table was satisfactory.

City Attorney Paul McGhee presented a bill for a copy of the Missouri Utilities rate increase hearing for $172.10.

The council will review the audit of the city at the Feb. 2 meeting.

THE FIRST PRESS RUN of the new Goss Suburban offset press, Monday, required close attention by installation supervisors and the Daily Standard printing crew. Each man had his duties to check rollers, ink flow and cylinder pressure. Press Foreman Charles Lee, in foreground checks web fold as it feeds down to the folder. Others near the press, back of Lee, are Lowell Webb, Junior Householder, Jesse Newsom, pressmen and Jack Bramble, Inland Machinery head pressman from Kansas City.

State Agency to Fight Crime Urged

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A bill to attack organized crime with a state agency like the FBI was introduced in the Missouri Senate Monday.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, DCape Girardeau, a former FBI man, said the proposal has been endorsed by all law enforcement agencies, including the state Sheriffs' Association. It was recommended recently by a special task force on organized crime.

The agency would be called the Missouri Intelligence and Investigation Division. It would be bipartisan, headed by a director and could include 20 agents, two attorneys and an accoutant. The agency would report directly to the attorney general.

Spradling said the agency would be organized like the highway patrol — half of the employes Democratic and half Republican.

The cost was estimated at $347,000 for the first year, going up to $525,000 by the third year.

Sen. Donald Manford, D-Kansas City, introduced a bill to provide stiff penalties for illegal use of fire bombs or other explosives. Penalties would range from five years for property damage up to life imprisonment if a bomb killed or injured someone.

A bomb threat would be punishable by one year imprisonment or a fine of $1,000 or both.

Two sales tax bills also were introduced.

Two Join Police Force

City Manager W. Raymert Miller announced today Odis Applewhite Jr., 378 Magnolia Drive, and James J. Watkings, Vanduser, have been appointed police patrolmen.

Applewhite, 22, is a former employe of Bridger Plumbing.

Watkins, 25, is a former employe of Leonard's Shell Service Station.

The police department has 27 members.

Collector's Office Probe Continues

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Thomas R. Gilmore said this morning a final decision has not been made in the investigation into the tax collector's office prior to the Jan. 6, 1970 resignation of Aubrey Micheal.

Gilmore said he is preparing a report on the investigation to be made "real soon" to members of the county court on "just what the present situation is."

Asked what the report would include, Gilmore replied he would rather wait until he gets it prepared.

"I've got lots of ideas but not in finished form yet," the prosecutor said.

During the investigation Gilmore has not been able to determine whether he will request a grand jury to assist him.

Sheriff John Dennis said his office is "still checking" the Collector's office, including the Dec. 8, 1969 reported armed robbery. J.W. "Dub" Shuffit, then deputy collector, said a lone gunman accosted him late at night in the court house and took about $3,100.

Audits by the state disclosed shortages totaling $109,000 in the collector's office for 1965-69. Michael has made settlement for the $109,000, but where the money went has not been reported by officials.

$50 Million Increase in Plant Cost

NEW MADRID—The board of aldermen announced today that Burns and McDonnell Engineering Company, Kansas City, construction engineer for the city of New Madrid, has informed the board that the cost of constructing the 600 megawatt steam electric generating plant at St. Jude industrial park, now in process, is estimated to have increased approximately $50 million from the original cost estimate.

As a result, R. W. Beck and Associates, Seattle, consulting engineer for the city, estimate that the city of New Madrid will have to issue completion bonds of approximately $60,000,000.

The completion date is set for April of 1972.

Judge Dismisses Liquor Charge Against Two

Judge Lloyd G. Briggs presided over a light session in magistrate court this morning.

Wayne Martin and Tommie Cochran, both of Chaffee, were dismissed on charges of possession of intoxicating beverages;

Alton Allen of Portageville was fined $10 and Carl Babb of route one was fined $20 both on speeding charges; Luther Easton, route one was fined $20 for careless driving;

Earl Thurston of Dexter was fined $15 for driving an overwidth vehicle; and a felonious stealing case was continued against Samuel Thomas of Sikeston.

Fire Razes Car, Four Gas Pumps

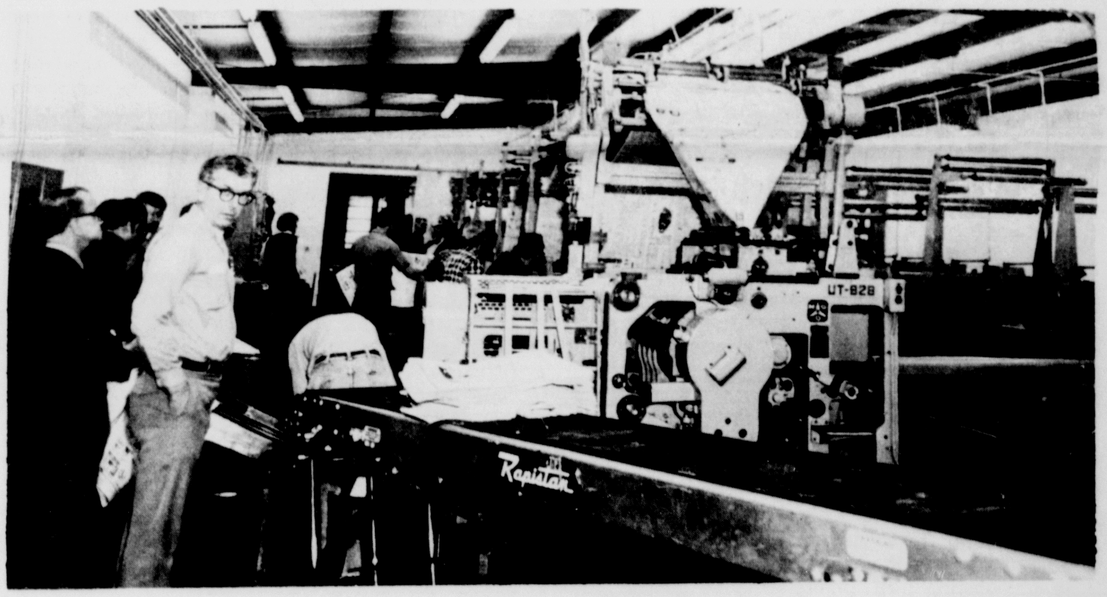

PORTAGEVILLE—A car and four gas pumps were destroyed Monday in a fire at 7:50 a.m. at Texgas service station one half block north of Main Street on highway 61.

Fire Chief Jitney Foster said the fire was started when a car driven by Justin DeLisle struck and knocked over a gas pump.

The driver and two passengers were "lucky to get out alive", Foster said.

Quick response by 13 volunteer firemen and the use of foam and high pressure fog were credited by Chief Foster with preventing a greater fire.

No injuries were reported. Damage to the building was limited to one broken window and scorching.

$1 Million in Power Plant Bills Okayed

NEW MADRID—The city council last night approved bills totalling $1,657,679.99 for power plant construction at St. Jude industrial park.

Also approved was payment of $16,410.33 to Superior Concretors, Cape Girardeau, for work completed on the new sewer lagoon and lift station.

Purchase was authorized for a 1,000-gallon underground gasoline storage tank and pump for the storage of gasoline for city vehicles and equipment.

An ordinance was approved naming the members of the St. Jude industrial park board—Sam Hunter,Jr., Hal Hunter,Jr., and Dick Phillips, Jr.

Mayor Robert A. Riley was authorized to sign a contract with the engineering firm of Burns and McDonnell, Kansas City, for engineering at the park.

Minister Says Africans Hungry For Gospel

The Rev. James W. Hackney, pastor of the First Baptist church, told the Rotary club last night that he found Africans "hungry for the gospel."

He told about his experiences on a trip to Rome and Africa and showed color slides at the meeting at the Rustic Rock Inn.

The Rev. Mr. Hackney said that he found Rhodesia making progress despite worldwide sanctions imposed against the country. He said the country was learning how to develop its own resources. He explained that his church has 55 missionaries in Rhodesia.

He called Victoria Falls his "most impressive sight."

The minister was introduced by Fred Koch.

New, Larger Press Goes into Operation

A two unit Goss Suburban offset press of 28-page capacity was placed in operation at the Daily Standard for the first time Monday.

Planning for the new press with a speed of 20,000 newspapers per hour and three-color capacity, began last summer when arrangements were completed to build a press room to house all 70,000 pounds of it.

The press arrived in November.

The press takes the place of the first offset unit of 16 pages, that was placed in Operation Aug. 10, 1964.

A four-page unit was added in January of 1965.

The old unit continued to function without difficulty. Why the new press was installed was explained by Allen Blanton, vice president in charge of the commercial printing department and of the Standard Publishing company. He said: "The old Color King, with its 20-page capacity has served its purpose well for over six years and made millions of printed impressions but the folder was inadequate when there were 18 or 20 pages.

"The new Goss Suburban press," Blanton said, "can run as two individual presses, separately or together, one a 12-page unit, and the other as a 16-page unit. The old press made two runs necessary, but now one unit sends the folded first section into the completed second unit fold, doing away with inserted sections inthe circulation department.

"The increase in business necessitated the enlarged press, which is now all automatic, together with many added safety devices."

The period of installation took six weeks and was under the supervision of Dick Perkins, Terry Shirley, both erectors for the Inland Machinery company, Kansas City, and Jack Bramble, head of Inland's offset department.

The building contractors were Cowan and Holman; Hambrick Electric, and Hazel Williams, plumbing contractor, all of Sikeston.

The press is installed in seven units, with the first line being four units of four pages each, and parallel to a three units of 12 pages, with a unitube folder capable of handling ten webs of paper, and folded either a half or quarter fold.

The three - unit section, is capable of handling four rolls, and also folded half and quarter size, and then passed over to the unitube folder, for the finished product. The paper rolls are now placed above each other instead of a long horizontal position as on the old press.

New engineering features are on the press, with a side register on both plate cylinders. All cylinders are of solid steel and chrome plated resist rust and corrosion caused from chemicals used in offset printing

Each plate cylinder has bearers that provide accurate setting for the required pressures between cylinders and with an automatic plate lockup device that saves the pressman extra time.

The ink flow is placed on each of the seven units that feeds a continuously without handling by the pressman. It is geared to the speed of the press, as are the water fount feeds to the wells, guaranteeing equal flow and pressure according to the press speed.

LOOKING OVER THE FIRST COPY that came off the Goss Suburban offset press Monday afternoon is Allen Blanton, vice president of the Standard Printing Company.

Burglars Often Hear Most Music from Stereo Tapes

By MIKE JENSEN

Stereo tape players and tape cartridges are one of today's hottest selling items in Sikeston but they have also been tagged as the leading cause behind a sharp increase in burglaries.

In 1970 there were 63 reports of stolen tape players in Sikeston and hundreds of tape cartridges. The total loss from these items was $7,571.53, which accounts for 31 per cent of the thefts of more than $50.

In 1969 only 42 tape players were stolen. This averages a theft every nine days. This figure rose to an average of one theft every six days in 1970 and in 1971 the total has risen to a tape player theft every 33 hours.

This amount of property loss does not include damage done to the vehicle in stealing the tapes. Automobiles have broken windows and convertible tops are destroyed when thieves enter the cars.

If the present rise in thefts continues, 1971 could see property losses in the tens of thousands of dollars.

The penalty for the theft of a stereo tape player is severe yet this has little effect. The maximum sentence on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle is five years in the penitentary. The maximum sentence for stealing over $50 is two to 10 years in the penitentary with a $1,000 fine.

The owners of tape player suffers the most. Rises in insurance premiums and noncoverage policies have added to the problems of the tape owner.

Many companies refuse to cover tape players or they raise their premiums to cover any loss. Even if the insurance company agrees to cover the lost tape, it is often depreciated to a degree that compensation is only a fraction of the original cost.

It was estimated that a tape cartridge depreciates 50 per cent after being used once and a tape player depreciates at a rate of two per cent each month.

Police Sgt. Leonard Campbell said that he has had some success in recovering the stolen items but often because of lack of identification, tapes are not recovered.

Some observers say that an organized gang is stealing the tape players and selling them to individuals for a quick profit but all observers concede that without owner cooperation the problem will continue.

Campbell suggests three steps that tape owners should take to prevent theft:

Car doors should be locked to discourage thefts. Many potential thieves will not risk breaking into a car but if the car is unlocked this is an open invitation to theft.

Tape cartridges should be kept in a glove compartment, console or box out of the view of a passerby. Many tape cartridges, left lying in the seat of a vehicle, are stolen every day.

Tape owners should mark their tape cartridges with a permanent identifiable sign. Every tape contains a serial number, but it often is easily removed making the owner defenseless to theft.

Individuals should scratch initials or serial numbers on each tape.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

ARE COMMUNITS BORN?

There are many theories as to why some people (a very small percentage) become Communists. One of the most common (and thoroughly discredited) ideas is that people become communists because they are poor, or hungry, or "underprivileged." But now the official Communist propaganda rag, the "Daily World," has come up with what may be a new theory. The "World" recently featured a headline which read: "Communist Forces Multiply." One would presume that as the result of a membership drive, additional members had been added to the roll of traitors to the United States. But this did not turn out to be the case.

The story which followed reported that on one day in the month of December, 1970, three babies were born to Communists parents in the New York City area. The father of one, a girl, reported The World is Jose Ristorucci, 27, Communist chairman of Manhattan. Her mother was identified as the "National Co-Chairman of the Women's Commission of the Communist Party."

On the same day, a boy was born to Fred Halper, New Jersey Daily World "Press director," and his wife, Louise Halper, a former employee of the Daily World. And, last, it was reported that Mrs. Fred Davis, identified by the World as a "former staff writer," gave birth to a son.

If we are to accept the Daily World report at face value, it suggests that the Marxists-Lenninists are in agreement with yet another theory of their ideological cousins, the Nazis; to wit, since both the mother and the father have "communist blood," the baby is therefore a pure-blooded Communist. Heil the new Master Race!

Most of us, however, will stick to the old-fashioned idea that Communists are not born; but that Communists have to be made. If these three infants grow up to hate America and worship the Soviet dictatorship, it will be because of the false and evil ideas implanted in their minds by indoctrination, and not because of their blood, or their race, or their economic status.

Meanwhile, the Paris talks stumble along and official memory is clouded by the "complexities of negotiations," else something might be done about the North Vietnamese who agreed not to shell South Vietnamese cities, in return for the bombing halt. A....NEW... AGNEW?

Neither friend nor foe will quarrel with Vice President Agnew's description of his spokesman for the administration in an election year." Now Agnew is preparing to step into a new, more dignified task. He is scheduled to fly to Atlanta on Wednesday, Jan. 27 to drumm up support for President Nixon's federal-state revenue-sharing plan among members of the National Association of County Executives. Several similar meetings between the Vice President and state and local officials are on tap in the near future.

Nixon told a nationwide television audience on Jan. 4 that the revenue-sharing plan he will submit to Congress this year goes "far beyond any proposal we have made to this date." In other words, the 1971 administration proposal will be more costly than that of 1970, which would have begun by turning over $500 million a year in federal revenue to the states. That amount would have risen to $5 billion annually after five years.

Revenue-sharing has broad bipartisan support. Around 200 House members are reported ready to sponsor the administration bill. The trouble is that some of the most influential figures in the House are opposed, including incoming Speaker Carl Albert (D Okla.), and Reps. Wilbur D. Mills (D Ark.) and John W. Byrnes (R Wis.), chairman and ranking Republican of the Ways and Means Committee. "I'm not going to be a tax collector for anyone but the federal government," Mills recently (Jan. 8) told the Washington Evening Star.

The fact that Agnew apparently is going to be chief lobbyist for the revenue-sharing plan suggests that Nixon is less than sanguine about its being approved. No one expects a President to be so altruistic as to let the Vice President take credit for the success of a major undertaking. If by some chance revenue-sharing shows promise of winning congressional approval. Nixon no doubt will relegate Agnew to the familiar vice presidential role of understudy.

WE SHOULD MAINTAIN STRENGTH

Negotiate from a position of strength and you are in position to call the tune, but negotiate from a position of weakness and you can do little more than take dictation.

There are those in the United States today who want our country simply to be able to take dictation. This would be a tragic position in which to find ourselves, for the communists, the ones with whom we are seeking to negotiate in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks, are ruthless and amoral, and dedicated to gaining their objectives at all costs. The only thing they respect is superior strength, and thus they would not hesitate to dictate harsh terms if they should ever feel they had gained real superiority in strength over the United States.

Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina makes this point in discussing the reasons why the United States could continue with its plans for the Safeguard ABM and the MIRV deployment.

"These systems," says Senator Thurmond, "are the two best bargaining weapons America has in negotiating a reduction in strategic arms at the SALT talks now in session in Vienna. Full support of U.S. intentions to deploy MIRV and the ABM will place the United States in a strong position to trade with the Soviets In my opinion, it would be foolish to give away our trump card in advance."

The Columbia, South Carolina, Record commented editorially on this same issue, as follows:

"Despite the best efforts to make the issue of national defense understandable, some critics of U.S. defense spending absolutely refuse to understand even a little about the subject. It suffices for their pupose to lament the 'military- industrial complex,' having done which they retire from debate, satisfied at a job well done.

"The subject, needless to say, is considerably more complex than they imagine. Likewise, considerably more important, for if the SALT talks in Vienna fail to make pacifists of the Soviets, the nation must fall back on the Pentagon for whatever security it may enjoy in the years ahead.

"Yet the giddy feeling persists that the Pentagon should declare a moratorium on defense work for the duration of the Vienna talks. Senator Edward Kennedy, for example, declared in a speech that Defense Secretary Laird's insistence on the Safeguard ABM system and MIRV warheads is 'undermining attempts' to get an international agreement on disarmament. The MIRV, a cluster of warheads in one rocket, particularly alarms him."

He charged that large - scale deployment of MIRV by the United States would probably so alarm the Russians that they would revert to a launch- on- warning system - that is, they would let their missiles go as soon as blips appeared on their radar screens which appeared likely to be incoming missiles.

The editorial continued: "If our MIRV's are that fearful a weapon, it becomes difficult to follow Senator Kennedy's logic; deployment would seem to be the best possible way of encouraging the Russians to sign a disarmament agreement... But what needs to be understood is that MIRV is not that fearful a weapon. Just the opposite, in fact.

"The chief virtue of the MIRV is its ability to penetrate an anti- ballistic missile defense, but it can do so only at a price. The price is diminished destructive power for each warhead... As a first strike weapon - one designed to knock out the enemy's hardened missile silos- the MIRV is a flop.

"In spite of this, Senator Kennedy and other critics of the MIRV insist on treating it as precisely the kind of weapon it is not.

"They also ignore, in the debate on the ABM system, the increasing Soviet fire power. In five years, the Nixon administration has recently disclosed, the Soviet Union will have 25,000 intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM's). This will be two and a half times as many as the United States will have by then. In terms of megatonnage, the Soviet missile force will outweigh the U.S. force by five or more to one. The Pentagon estimates that such a Soviet force would be able to destroy 95 per cent of America's land- based missiles."

It is up to us to make certain this does not happen. Only the United States is capable financially and productively of maintaining the kind of defense necessary against Red aggression.

It has been extremely fortunate for the people of the United States that the doves of the Revolutionary War period did not prevail. There were doves then, but they were called Tories.

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

One of the general criticisms of our times is that nobody listens anymore. This is true. You would think that people who talk to themselves would at least always have an interested audience of one. But they don't. They can't even hold their own attention, and rarely appear to hear what they are saying to themselves.

Ever notice how many grown young women retain the trancelike childhood habit of toying with a curl with one finger while nibbling with her lips at the thumb of the other hand? I always feel like going out and buying them a box of lollipops.

A secretary never forgets a boss who brings her one small red rose on her birthday, but the one she remembers most warmly is the one who sends her a great big check.

You can guarantee failure for the guy who spends more time watching a clock than the fellow who's in line for his job.

The Lord does many things to keep a kind of balance in the world. That must be why He often puts freckles on the nose of girls with knobby knees, dimples in the cheeks of those with bowlegs, and a big loud mouth in girls with pretty shapes and faces.

There's one advantage to these wide new neckties some men are letting their wives and daughters talk them into wearing: they make a man look silly —but they do seem to cut down on the number of chest colds he catches.

The situation still hasn't thawed out in the home of a friend of mine who doesn't like frozen foods. All he gave his wife for Christmas was a new icepick.

Speaking of foods, one of my biggest problems with my cat is trying to get her to eat leftover stubs of dried salami. My refrigerator is full of them, and if the cat doesn't develop an appetite for them soon, I may have to sew them together and make a quilt.

Isn't it odd that in an emergency, it's always the old maid in the office—not the pretty young things in the stenographic pool—who always have a safety pin in her desk?

If people could be arrested for their thoughts, most women would be held for murder; most men would be charged with—well, just for what you suspect they would.

The worst thing about having to wear dentures is that they whistle loud enough to attract attention at a cocktail party, but not loud enough to call a cab when you leave.

MORE INTEREST REVENUE FOR STATE

Governor Warren Hearnes' proposal to the General Assembly for enactment of legislation that would require banks to bid competitively for deposits of state funds should be supported.

Such a plan could bring the state hundreds of thousands of dollars in added interest revenues and end the practice of assigning state funds to banks on the basis of politics alone.

These should be certain provisions, however, to insure a fairly even distribution of state funds around the state and to assure smaller banks a fair share of deposits.

Big banks could be prevented from getting more than their fair proportion of state funds by dividing banks into three or more categories of size for the competitive bidding for state funds.

A reasonably fair geographical distribution could be accomplished by alloting amounts to various sectors of the state, based upon the number and size of banks in each sector.

INDUSTRY URGES NEW PATTERN FOR POSTAL REFORM

It is universally agreed that our postal service is in trouble and that reform is necessary.

In a statement presented to the United States Senate, the National Association of Manufacturers said that the debate is over whether to implement the postal corporation proposal or to attempt to achieve reform within the existing structure. NAM observed that, if the latter alternative were really feasible, the postal system would not be in its present plight.

The Post Office has proved to be incapable of self - support for 113 of the past 130 years and has become a continuing drain on the federal budget.

The cumulative postal deficit from fiscal 1959 through fiscal 1969 was $9.3 billion, despite rate increases for one or more classes of mail in 7 years since then.

The NAM strongly supports the basic purpose of the postal corporation which aims to provide the Post Office enterprise with the same type of management, personnel policies, and techniques that have been so outstandingly successful in American corporations. The statement said that it is logical that our society should employ the know-how developed in our commercial and industrial life to manage this function that so closely resembles a commercial or industrial enterprise. In fact, the Post Office is such an enterprise in all but form.

"There is no substitute for competent management to whom is given responsibility and authority in equal measure, as well as the prerogative of choosing between alternatives based on current and changing conditions," says NAM. "The authority to make decisions carries with it the freedom and responsibility to take risks and to be judged by batting - average performance rather than by each detail. This is inherent in the decision to purchase mechanized equipment to improve labor productivity. Industry's performance is in sharp contrast to the Post Office Department's in this regard."

"United States business management recognizes the importance of good employee relations and the effectiveness of satisfied employees, for whom opportunities for growth and progress are available," the NAM statement concludes. "The training and retraining of employees for better performance on the job and advancement to jobs on a higher level are functions common to most of American industry. We believe that H.R. 11750 would go a long way towards giving the Post Office the benefits of the management techniques employed by U.S. commerce and industry."

IN SOFIA, A COMRADE visited the office of Bulgaria's Premier.

"Comrade," he asked, astonished, "what kind of a telephone are you using? It has a receiver but no mouthpiece."

"If you must know," the Premier answered, "that is our direct connection with Moscow!"

TOM BENTON

The man emerging from Robert Sanford's series of articles on Thomas Hart Benton is every inch a Missourian — crusty, talented, individualistic, without pretense. Mr. Benton's work has had its ups and downs in the art world, and no one now can pass final judgment on his total output. At times he has been criticized as no more than a regional artist, and of course his brother Nat and Tom Pendergast and old Judge Kirby do grace the walls of the State Capitol. But that's Missouri. There is a universality about the Missouri type and Mr. Benton has caught it. His name and his personality go deep into the history and culture of this state. Missouri is proud of him, and we can see no future time in which his accomplishments will go unrecognized in his native land. It is good to learn that there is presently a revival of interest in his paintings, and that he remains productive, and salty, at the age of 81.

SOLZHENITSYN:S NOBEL PRIZE

While Nobel Prizes in the past have often gone to persons of dubious worth, Russian novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn justly deserved the 1970 Nobel Prize for Literature. The reaction to the award in the Soviet Union is in itself evidence of the worth of Solzhenitsyn's writings.

Solzenitsyn is the author of A Day in the Life Ivan Denisovitch, the Cancer Ward, The First Circle and various short stories and essays. His works are based on his own experiences and cast a clear light on the evil of the Soviet regime.

Solzheni'syn spent eight years in concentration camps because of his criticism of Stalin. The horror of these Stalinist camps was detailed in Ivan Denisovitch. That the Soviet government today remains essentially unchanged is evident from its angry reaction to the Novel Prize award, and its refusal to allow the author to travel to Stockholm to receive the prize in person.

Like other Russian authors who dare to criticize communism, Solzhenitsyn has had to publish most of his works secretly. Government publishing firms are reserved for those who advance the party line, and of course private firms are not allowed to exist openly.

Solzhenitsyn's experience is similar to that of Boris Pasternak, who also received the Nobel Prize for Literature. He too was prohibited from receiving the prize because his novel Dr. Ahivago was critical of communism. By contrast, when pro-communist writer Mikhail Sholokhov received the prize, the Soviet government was jubilant. Obviously "freedom of the press'.' in the Soviet Union means freedom for pro-communist writers only. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The plot to kill Cuban dictator Fidel Castro, hidden for 10 years from the public, raises some ugly questions that high officials would rather keep buried deep inside the Central Intelligence Agency.

1. HAS THE CIA TRIED TO ASSASSINATE ANY OTHER LEADERS? John McCone, who headed the CIA during the six attempts to knock off Castro, denied emphatically that the CIA has tried to kill anyone. But ex-Senator George Smathers, one of John F. Kennedy's closest friends, told us the late President suspected that the CIA had arranged the shootings of the Dominican Republic's Rafael Trujillo in 1961 and South Vietnam's Ngo Dihn Diem in 1963.

2. DID PRESIDENT KENNEDY PERSONALLY SANCTION THE PLOT AGAINST CASTRO? The preparations to assassinate the Cuban dictator began during the last months of the Eisenhower administration as part of the Bay of Pigs scheme. All six attempts, however, were made during 1961-63 when Kennedy occupied the White House. Smathers told us he once spoke to the late President about assassinating Castro. Kennedy merely rolled back his eyes, recalled Smathers, as if to indicate the idea was too wild to discuss. Subsequently, Kennedy told Smathers of his suspicion that the CIA may have been behind the Trujillo and Diem assassinations.

3. DID THE LATE ROBERT KENNEDY KNOW ABOUT THE ASSASSINATION ATTEMPTS? After the Bay of Pigs fiasco, President Knnedy swore to friends he would like "to splinter the CIA in a thousand pieces and scatter it to the winds." He put his brother, Robert, in charge of the CIA with instructions to shake it up. The CIA made five attempts on Castro's life after the Bay of Pigs while Robert Kennedy was riding herd on the agency.

4. COULD THE PLOT AGAINST CASTRO HAVE BACKFIRED AGAINST PRESIDENT KENNEDY? The late President was murdered nine months after the last assassination team was caught on a Havana rooftop with high-powered rifles. Presumably, they were subjected to fiendish tortures until they told all they knew. None of the assassination teams, however, had direct knowledge of the CIA involvement. The CIA instigators had represented themselves as oilmen seeking revenge against Castro for his seizure of oil holdings.

DID PLOT BACKFIRE?

Former associates recall that Robert Kennedy, deeply, despondent, went into semi-seclusion after his brother's assassination. Could he have been tormented by more than natural grief? He certainly learned that the assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, had been active in the pro-Castro movement and had traveled to Mexico to visit the Cuban Embassy a few weeks before the dreadful day in Dallas. Could Bob Kennedy have been plagued by the terrible thought that the CIA plot, which he must at least have condoned, put into motion forces that may have brought about his brother's martyrdom?

The last surviving brother, Senator Tom Kennedy, D—Mass., could give us no insight. His brothers had never spoken to him about any assassination attempts against Castro, he said. He was aware, he volunteered, only that Senator Smathers had talked to the late President about eliminating Castro.

Smathers told us that President Kennedy seemed "horrified" at the idea of political assassinations. "I remember him saying," recalled Smathers, "that the CIA frequently did things he didn't know about, and he was unhappy about it. He complained that the CIA was almost autonomous.

"He told me he believed the CIA had arranged to have Diem and Trujillo bumped off. He was pretty well shocked about that. He thought it was a stupid thing to do and he wanted to get control of what the CIA was doing."

But McCone, disagreeing vigorously, told us that "no plot was authorized or implemented" to assissinate Castro, Trujillo, Diem or anvone else.

MCCONE'S RECOLLECTIONS

"During those days of tension, there was a wide spectrum of plans ranging from one extreme to another," McCone admitted. "Whenever this subject (assassinating Castro) was brought up -- and it was -- it was rejected immediately on two grounds. First, it would not be condoned by anybody. Second, it wouldn't have achieved anything."

There was also talk in high places, McCone acknowledged of supporting a coup to oust Diem. The former CIA director said he had argued against this at a secret sesssion with both Kennedy brothers. He had contended that there was no one strong enough to take Diem's place and that a coup, therefore, would bring "political upheaval."

"I told the President and Bobby together," recalled McCone, "that if I were running a baseball team and had only one pitcher, I wouldn't take him out of the game."

The November, 1963, coup caught the U.S. completely by surprise, he said. While the plotters were moving on the palace, he said, then Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was visiting Diem. Admiral Ulysess Sharp, then our Pacific commander, had also been present, but had left early to go the airport.

McCone said President Diem escaped through a tunnel but was caught in nearby Cholon and "shot in a station wagon."

STEEL PRESSURE

President Nixon jolted the steel industry with his threat to import foreign steel, if necessary, to drive down steel prices. His tough statement was intended, in part, as a precedent for bringing presidential pressure upon the steel workers.

They will set the pattern for more than five million more workers whose contracts will be renegotiated this year. The steel workers union will negotiate for 400,000 workers in the steel industry and another 25,000 in aluminum, can, copper and other non-ferrous industries. At least half a dozen other big unions will be watching the steel workers settlement before they press their own demands.

A new round of wage increases could send the economy into another inflationary spiral. The President, therefore, is eager to hold down the steel workers' pay raise. He could hardly oppose a wage increase, however, if he acquiesced to a price increase by the steel companies.

In the past, President Nixon has been reluctant to use his office to pressure labor and management to accept more moderate settlements. The inflation threat is so serious, however, that he is now changing his attitude. But, he still will not go so far as to press for wage and price controls.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

PRESIDENT CRISES CATCHING: Nixon Considering Calling Home Front Summit Conference To Devise Wage-Price Freeze.

WASHINGTON -- Richard Nixon is winding up for the pitch he'll be making at private White House luncheons and utterly off-the-record, eyeball-to-eyeball talks with labor and business leaders in coming weeks. He does believe he must do something about wages. So he is jawboning prices.

But he's a very cool political twirler. He knows exactly to whom he's pitching. So he's conditioning himself for some tough action. But what action? No one seems to be able to control the rank and file today -- a rank and file whom one of the nation's top, truly top, labor chiefs called "wild Indians" recently. So the strategy seems to be -- build up the game and the players so they stand high in their own leagues. Handle the crisis by averting it -- is President Nixon's psychology.

There is White House consideration, the force of a home-front summit. This might just about do it if the rank and file can be convinced that their wage demands – soon to be rip-roaring across the land with a series of national strikes following in a burst of turbulence -- will wash out the value of the dollar.

Richard Nixon doesn't come to all this as a novice. Especially on the steel front. Back in 1959 he was President Eisehhower's labor trouble-shooter. The nation then was hit by a national steel strike. When "Ike' ' was pressured to interven he said "see Dick."

So it was in late December of that year that the then vice president called in U.S. Steel's chief executive, the gentle-voiced Roger Blough, the equally soft-voiced labor lawyer Arthur Goodberg, the silver-haired, pipe-smoking steel union leader Dave McDonald, and the genial Irish Secretary of Labor Jim Mitchell. They talked in Mr. Nixon's home for many long hours.

Later the Vice president dispatched Jim Mitchell to Arthur Goldberg to ask the man who soon was to go on to the labor secretaryship, the Supreme Court and the U.N., just what it would take, rock bottom, to settle the strike before it crippled the nation.

Mr. Goldberg consulted with his client. He then conferred with Jim Mitchell and wrote out the rock bottom settlement price on a slip of paper. This was handed to Richard Nixon. The vice president rushed up to New York. He talked with his friend, counsellor William Rogers (who presumably discussed it with Thomas E. Dewey). Mr Boough was, of course, consulted.

There was agreement. Mr. Nixon returned to Washington. The final settlement was made in the Bethlehem Steel Corp. headquarters here.

Later in January, the crisis averted, Dick Nixon sat with some friends and reminisced. He would be running for president, he reckoned, against Jack Kennedy. And if he were elected, he said, he would solve labor crises by calling in labor and management leaders to sit, confer and reason things out together.

He knew the labor movement then -- all the way from Walter Reuther, with whom he corresponded, to George Meany, whom he had gotten to know while presiding over a White House state dinner during one of President Eisenhower's illness.

So, being crises-prone, aware of the toughness of labor and the ability of industrialists such as Roger Blough to turn quickly into men of steel, Mr. Nixon is well equpped for what faces him -- and the nation.

There will be more strike threats than Vice President Spiro Agnew has alliterations.

Just look at the United Steelworkers of America (USW – AFL-CIO) led by I.W. (Abe' Abel. Most of the 3,600 contracts the union holds with 2,600 employers expire this year.

Negotiations are on in the can industry. Soon in aluminum. Copper mining as well as smelting and refinig contracts are up June. 30. Then basic steel pacts, covering some 550,00 men, expire a month later. Thus both industries may be shut down.

And what of the expiring coal field contracts with the United Mine Workers now under government siege? And coal produces the energy for powerhouse which make the electricity which lights the cities.

Not many observers peer that far ahead through all this sloshy weather. But glance at that dynamite-laden ball of wax.

It's all sealed in -- coal, power, steel, copper -- the sheer gut of the nation. And Abe Abel feels he has to deliver to his people who he says are now strike-prone again and ready to walk out in the first national steel strike since 1959.

He has a tough rank and file. Some 35 per cent of them are under 30 years of age -- and every two years there's a turnover affecting about one third of the big steel union's active members.

So he has a long shopping list; The unions wants a "substantial" wage increase, an uncapped COLA (cost of living allowance as won by the auto workers); a summer vacation for all with the industry shutting down for two weeks; a shorter work week and the no-strike clause cut from the contract.

He's ready to strike. He knows all about inflation. Back in 1959 the union thought it had it made with some $5 million in the war chest. Now it has $50 million. And that's peanuts. It is also the mark of the times. Millions of dollars mean little. Soon the dollar will mean less.

That's why the President is thinking of a domestic summit peace conference.

MOTHERS MARCH OF DIMES will be Monday evening. Mrs. Earl Jarvis, left, answers the door to accept her neighborhood chairman packet from Mrs. James E. Turner, Sikeston Mothers March chairman. Mrs. P. J. Schlosser is the Scott County Mothers March campaign director. All three are of Sikeston.

Daughters of Isabella of St. Francis Xavier church, Sikeston, sponsors the Scott county Mothers March of Dimes. At the Jan. 6 meeting, Dorthy Turner was appointed Sikeston Mothers March chairman. Mrs. P. J. Schlosser is Scott county campaign director, her third year in this post.

The March of Dimes Mothers March will be conducted house to house Monday evening. The county-wide goal is $5000. One-third of the funds collected will be retained in the county and will provide help for anyone with a birth defect or any former polio victim who is in need of treatment or equipment.

The other two-thrids of the funds will be used to support three area treatment centers, Children's Hospital and Cardinal Glennon Children's hospital, both in St. Louis, and the University of Missouri-Columbia Medical Center treatment area, Columbia.

During 1970, Scott county sent seven children to the St. Louis treatment centers. A wheel chair was provided for a former polio patient. Another former polio patient was sent to Warm Springs, Ga., for treatment baths.

The March of Dimes was begun in honor of the late Franklin Delano Roosevlet, a former president of the United States and a polio victim. The Mothers March is scheduled on the Monday before Jan. 29, the birthday anniversary of this late statesman.

Hayti Pads Lead

Only six minor and one major change were recorded in this week's Daily Standard basketball poll after weekend balloting by a panel of 15 coaches.

Undefeated Hayti added another first place vote to its credit, sporting nine of the 15 possible, and have moved ahead by 43 points over its nearest competitor.

The only noticable change among this week's poll is the addition of Lilbourn to the elite and the dropping of unbeaten Van Buren from the number two slot to fourth after two near losses in the Doniphan invitational last week.

Notre Dame and Dexter advanced to second and third to make room for the Bulldogs in fourth while Charleston, Parma and Richland held down their respective fifth, sixth and seventh places of a week ago.

North Pemiscot, who lost its third game of the season last week, tumbled from eighth to a 10th place tie with Lilbourn while Leadwood and New Madrid advance one place after holding down ninth and 10th respectively last week.

Each member of the poll is scheduled for action this week with Hayti and North Pemiscot being the only members to have two games scheduled.

Highlighting the schedule is the collision between the Indians and Mustangs tonight at Hayti. While another top game shapes up as Richland goes to Matthews.

Hayti, besides hosting North Pem tonight, will host Clarkton Friday while the MPHS cagers go to Portageville.

The only other game scheduled by a poll member tonight is Dexter's hosting of Bloomfield, while the remaining elite have Friday and Saturday evening engagements.

Van Buren goes to Ellington; Parma host Holcomb; Leadwood takes on Ste. Genevieve; New Madrid is at Twin Rivers and Lilbourn entertains Sikeston in Friday battles.

Charleston will host West Memphis in Saturday's only contest.

Cornhuskers Honored

LINCOLN (AP) — Some 2,000 persons turned out Monday night to honor Nebraska's first national champion football team.

Robert Johnson of New York, general sports editor of the Associated Press, presented the undefeated cornhuskers—11-0-1 for the season—the traveling trophy signalling Nebrsska's No. 1 national rating in the final poll of sports writers and broadcasters. The trophy becomes the permanent possession of any team winning it three times.

Johnson also presented to coach Bob Devaney a permanent possession plaque emblematic of the honor.

Speaker for the Pershing Auditorium honors banquet, attended by 1,600 diner and some 400 more persons who paid $2 apiece for spectator privileges, was football coach Dee Andros of Oregon State, a former assistant at Nebraska.

"I know the price you paid to get as far as you got," Androse told team members and coaches. "I know the amount of sacrifive that each and every man on this team made, and I know the dedication which you had to yourself and to your coaches and to your alumni that took you all the way.

"Some people will say you had some breaks to get there. Gentlemen, I know you had some breaks to get there—you have to have breaks to be a champion. But nothing is ever given to you. You earned everything that you got."

Gov. J. J. Exon commissioned all team members admirals in the mythical Nebraska Navy and said they "have done more in a short year to put Nebraska on the map than any other effort that has ever taken place."

The Guy Chamberlain trophy named for a Nebraska superstar of the 1913-15 era was presented to split end Guy Ingles.

Optimist Clubs of Lincoln presented trophies to Ed Periad as the outstanding senior defensive lineman, to All-American Jrry Murtaugh as the outstanding senior defensive back, to Ingles as the outstanding offensive lineman, and to co-captain Dan Schneiss as the outstanding senior offensive back.

Coach Devaney, the nation's winningest major head coach, described himself as "humble and thankful." He said he firmly believes the 1970 Cornhusker team to be "the finest I've ever had the opportunity of being a part of."

Radio KFOR sportscaster Dick Perry of Lincoln served as master of ceremonies.

PHS PIRATES

PARMA— Coach Bill Caston's PHS Pirates made their final preparations for next week's New Madrid County Tournament with last night's 87-68 conference win over the visiting Tigers of Risco. It was win number fourteen for the eighteen game season, and moved the Pirates into a three way tie (5-1) with Lilbourn and New Madrid in the conference campaign.

After a slow moving first quarter of play, the Panthers seemed to find the range on their own nets, pouring their way past the Tigers in a 23-14 second quarter uprising. Behind the rebounding and scoring tactics of the Panthers' David Wright, Joe White, and David Williamson, the Panthers took the lead and increased it in each of the remaining quarters.

Teammates Williamson and White were tops in the scoring department with 29 and 24 respective points, while grabbed 15 and 17 rebounds each. Rounding out the Parma scoring attack where James Pope, who finished with 10 points and an important 15 rebounds, and David Wright with 17 big tallies.

Randy Terry handled the Tigers scoring honors with his 24 point finish, while Darryl Wood and John Bunting turned in respective marks of 17 and 10 points. Risco managed a good showing from the free throw line for the night, as they put through 15 out of 20 shots.

Risco picked up the earlier JV match over the junior Panthers a close 66-63 battle. A scoring combination of Johnson with 28 and Wilson with 15 netted the JV Tigers the victory.

A four man scoring attack, Wagner and Barnes with 15, Scott with 12, and Gaines with 11, paced the JV Panthers in the contest.

SPORTS CORNER
Ron Jaynes

WE DIDN'T REALIZE how many readers we had of our column until our two week layoff of predictions...The response for its return has been great.

Thank you.

Our figures for the season read 87 of 119 for something over 70 percent...not bad considering the caliber of the teams this season and the fact that we've discarded our eight ball, mustic pipes and other "sometime" helpful material.

So, here's the way we see tonight's outcome from the sports desk.....

BLOOMFIELD AT DEXTER—Coach Jim Hall's Bearcats are improving with every game while the Wildcats have been up and down all season... They'll certainly be down tonight...DHS 77, Bloomfield 52.

NORTH PEMISCOT AT HAYTI—What's happened to the once potent Mustang offense, which averaged nearly 100 points through its first eight games? Have they reached their peak too soon? Those are the questions tossed around by many SEMO fans....They must snap out of it tonight though if they plan on repeating as Bootheel champs...The Indians are unbeaten and have a victory over North Pem....Coach Bill Beck's Tribe have improved with every game, although they've played some close battles...they seem to play just hard enough to win...They'll have to put out a little extra tonight though.....North Pemiscot 67, Hayti 66.

RICHLAND AT MATTHEWS—Coach Al Gilliams quintet are due to surprise someone, and the coaches of the New Madrid county conference hopes its before next week's tourney or after...It's not likely tonight, but don't bet on it...Richland 71, Matthews 67.

PUXICO AT BELL CITY—The Cubs are another team that's due for a surprise win...It might come tonight...We think so....Bell City 69, Puxico 63.

GIDEON AT HOLCOMB—Coach McMahon has the biggest team of his 40 years of coaching and they have been improving with every game...GHS has been hard to figure out...Thus leaving us a hard game to predict, but a stab says.....Holcomb 71, Gideon 66.

TWIN RIVERS AT MALDEN———Many have thought the Royals to be just another so-so team, but most had better re-evaluate the situation...They are big and are improving with each game...The Green Waves had better watch their steps....Malden will prevail however... MHS 68, TRHS 65.

SOUTH IRON 63, ELLSINORE 56

COUCH 72, BIRCH TREE 67

BERNIE 65, CAMPBELL 59

DELTA C-7 71, CLARKTON 55

FREDERICKTOWN 77, ST. VINCENT 60

SENATH 66, KENNETT 63

DONIPHAN 59, NEELYVILLE 57

FLAT RIVER 78, POTOSI 71

Scott-Miss. Tourney DELTA VS. I-SC—Little has been heard from the Bobcats of late. Coach Pete Townsend's team will be heard of before the tourney colcludes...Delta 70, I-SC 50

ORAN VS. EAST PRAIRIE—Something tells us that the Eagles might be up for this contest and the tournament. OPPS...We mean both flocks...EPHS was very impressive in its last outing while OHS has been just up and down since the Christmas tournaments....This will be a close battle...and we see—Oran 64, East Prairie 63.

SCOTT CENTRAL VS. CHAFFEE—Has the Red Devils offense really come around? It ran over 100 points on the board in one of its most recent contest...The Braves are our pick to upset the tournament seeds...wait and see....Scott Central 83, Chaffee 69.

THAT'S ALL....

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — There was so much difference in ages that it could have been a Father-Son awards night. But both men were star quarterbacks honored as outstanding players of the year.

George Blanda, at 43 still a pressure kicker and a solid backup quarterback for the Oakland Raiders, and Jim Plunkett, still a Stanford College student, received Maxwell Club awards here Monday.

Plunkett, Stanford's hotshot passer who earlier received the Heisman Trophy, was given the Maxwell Award for the college player of the year.

Blanda, who got the Bert Bell award as pro player of the year said he would continue playing pro football "as long as I can contribute to the Raiders' success and meet with the approval of coaches."

17 Cards In Fold

ST.LOUIS (AP)–Four more players have returned contracts, bringing to 17 the number signed for the coming season, the St. Louis baseball Cardinals said Monday.

Contracts were received from pitcher Frank Linzy, infielder Milt Ramirez and outfielders Jim Beauchamp and Jose Cruz, the Cardinals said.

Linzy had a 3.69 earned run average in 47 games last season. He was obtained from San Francisco in May.

Ramirez, a 20-year-old right-hand batter obtained from Baltimore was used as backup to shortstop Dal Mxvill last season.

Beauchamp, 31, signed with the Cardinals as a free agent in 1958. He played for Milwaukee, Atlanta, Cincinnati and Houston before returning to the Redbirds.

Cruz, 22, batted .300 for Arkansas in the Texas League last year. He bats left-handed.

Twins Assault Irish

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The ninth-ranked Fighting Irish of Notre Dame ran into a full-Nelson Monday night—two of them, in fact—and were pinned with their fourth defeat of the college basketball season.

Unranked Duquesne's 6-foot10 Nelson twins went to work on the Irish and wrestled away an 81-78 overtime victory. Garry Nelson led the Dukes with 22 points, including four in the overtime period after brother Barry tied the score at 69-all with one minute left in regulation time.

Notre Dame battled back from a 12-point deficit midway through the second half and surged in front by three points with two minutes remaining before the Nelsons put the Irish down for the count.

Jarrett Durham added 20 points for Duquesne while Austin Carr had 31 and Collis Jones 27 for Notre Dame, which held onto ninth place in this week's Associated Press poll despite a loss last week.

The only other teams in the Top Ten to see action Monday night were fifth-ranked Kansas, which opened its Big Eight campaign with an 83-57 rout of Iowa State, and 10th-rated St. Bonaventure, an 80-67 loser to No. 14 Villanova.

The Jayhawks, up from eighth place a week ago, ran their record to 12-1 behind the hot shooting of Bud Stallworth and Dave Robisch. Stallworth connected on seven of eight shots in the first half as Kansas rolled to a 43-27 lead and Robisch took over in the second half to tie Iowa State's Gene Mack for scoring honors with 21 points.

Villanova, which dropped one spot to 14th despite two victories last week, raced to a 20-9 spread over St. Bonaventure and the Bonnies never got closer than six points thereafter.

A tenacious zone defense limited the losers to seven baskets in 38 first-half shots and knocked them out of contention. Villanova's Howard Porter and St. Bona's Dale Tepas shared scoring honors at 22 points.

The Bonnies, idle last week, had climbed from 12th to 10th in the poll.

In other key games, deliberate Clemson gave Tates Locke his 100th coaching triumph by upsetting North Carolina State 59-50 in the Atlantic Coast Conference and Barry Cohen's timely free throw shooting in the final two minutes preserved Georgia's 77-76 South-Eastern Conference win over Auburn. John Mengelt of the losers was held to 11 points, his lowest total since his sophomore year.

Colorado fought off a late Oklahoma State rally and edged the Cowboys 62-59 in Big Eight play. Florida State turned back tough little Stetson 78-71 and Murray State downed Bradley 79-71 in overtime.

The top four teams in the poll were unchanged. UCLA received 26 of the 28 first-place votes and 552 points and was trailed again by Marquette, Southern California and Pennsylvania. Marquette received the other two first-place baliots and cut UCLA's lead from 85 points last week to 58.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Kansas, Jacksonville, Western Kentucky, Tennessee, Notre Dame and St. Bonaventure.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP) — Tyler Palmer, a 20-year-old rookie on his first European circuit, defeated a 13-nation mens special slalom field Sunday to give the United States its first World Cup victory of the Alpine ski season.

With a dazzling second run, Palmer, a high school senior from Kearsage, N.H., raced through the finish with a total time of 88.27 seconds for the two-leg event. That was comfortably ahead of Austria's Harald Rofner in 89.01 and Italian slalom ace Gustavo Thoeni in 89.27

With Hank Kashiwa, of Old Forge, N.Y., seventh and Rick Chaffee of Rutland, Vt., eighth, the U.S. squad continued its recent surge.

Colts Look For QB

MIAMI (AP) — Quarterback insurance is high on the priority list of Baltimore's pro football champions today as they turn their attention from UUPER Bowl to the upcoming National Football League draft.

But, with geriatric wonders Johnny Unitas and Earl Morrall apparently set for another whirl in 1971, Colts Coach Don McCafferty isn't anxious to make a premium payment by breaking up his old gang.

"We'd like to get a good, young quarterback, but not at a high price that would break up this team," McCafferty said Monday as the Colts, savoring their 16-13 Super Bowl conquest of Dallas, prepared to make the most of the $15,000 winners' share and their new-found place in the sun.

A contingent of players and their wives headed for a Bahamas vacation. Three standouts —Bubba Smith, Mike Curtis and Jerry Logan—have playing dates in Sunday's Pro Bowl AllStar game at Los Angeles. And Unitas, a second-quarter casualty in the Super Bowl, was due to undergo further tests on his damaged ribs.

It will be back to business for the tall, soft spoken McCafferty, a Baltimore assistant coach for 11 years before directing the Colts' redemption crusade in his first year as head man.

"The players are on their own," he said, "but we have to start working on the draft for next week."

On the agenda for the Colts' brain trust are further discussions with the Boston Patriots, who have the top pick in the draft—and the first crack at Jim Plunkett, Stanford's Heisman Trophy winner, or another of 1970's blue chip college quarterbacks.

"We have talked several times with Boston, but only in general," said Colts General Manager Don Klosterman. "No specific players were discussed. We asked the Patriots not to do anything until after the Super Bowl so we would have a fair shot. They agreed."

The Colts, whose fourth-quarter comeback against the Cowboys gave them a measure of revenge for a 16-7 loss to the New York Jets in Super Bowl III two years ago, will draft 26th. But Commissioner Pete Rozelle also has awarded them the No. 22 pick, from Miami, as a "tampering" penalty against the Dolphins for luring coach Don Shula away from Baltimore.

That would include Unitas, 37, and Morrall, 36, who have played 15 pro seasons each and don't plan to call it quits.

Desire For Death Causes For Serious Over-eating

Dear Ann Landers: Why didn't you tell "Worried In Seattle," -- the woman who said her husband is killing himself with food, -- that he wants to die. I know what I'm talking about because I am that man -- and there are many others like me.

My religion forbids divorce so there's no way out for me. My marriage fell apart a long time ago. Home, to me, means nagging, complaining, endless arguing and screaming. The tension and hostility is indescribable. My wife has managed to kill any sexual desire I might have had. When I look at her now it's difficult to believe I ever wanted her.

Eating is the only pleasure left in my life. In the 24 years we've been married I have never cheated on my wife. She has soured me so throughly on the entire female sex that any thought of another woman is just as nauseating as the thought of her.

If obesity will shorten my life I say, "Pass the second piece of pie-a-la-mode." It's too late to give me any advice, Ann Landers, but if you have a comment I'd like to hear it. ----Two-Ton-Tommy

Dear Tommy: Your admission that you want to die, comes as no surprise to me. The only thing that surprises me is that you recognize the motivation behind your excessive eating. Most compulsive eaters aren't so introspective. I am NOT talking about people who are 10 to 20 pounds over weight, I mean people who should lose 50 or 75 pounds.

The person who likes himself takes care of himself. Individuals who eat too much and drink too much, or mess around with drugs, are subconsciously trying to achieve one goal -- self destruction.

You didn't ask for advice so I won't offer any. Furthermore I suspect you know the solution but you'd rather keep on doing what you're doing. So to you I say, good luck and farewell.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been out of town for several days but my wife saves your column for me. I hope I.m not too late to offer a workable solution to the barking dog problem. This is how we did it.

My wife and I were becoming literally worn out from a lack of sleep. The dog next door howled and barked regularly from about 2:00 a.m. until 4:00 a.m. We reviewed several alternatives and settled on a diplomatic solution which was not entirely cricket -- but we were desperate.

That night we telephoned the neighbor promptly at 2:15 a.m. after about 15 minutes of barking. A very sleepy man answered. I said in a polite voice, "you dog is barking." He replied, "WHAT?" I repeated, "Your dog is barking." He hung up. Three minutes later the barking stopped.

The next night the barking began on schedule. I made another telephone call. Same message. Same response. Within ten minutes the barking stopped. The dog started to bark again at 5:00 a.m. I tekephoned once more, and again the neighbor hung up on me, but I had to make only two calls after that one. We have not seen the dog since and we don't know if they still have him. But we DO know we are no longer awakened at odd hours and that's all we care about. Peace In Kansas City

Dear Peace: I see nothing "un-cricket" about your solution. Nothing succeeds like success. Thanks for sharing.

Popovers Have Extra Food Value

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press Food Editor

It's lovely to find a recipe that adds nutrients and flavor to an old standby.

What's in the oven? Popovers, that favorite American hot bread. And what's added? Wheat germ, that rich source of vitamins and minerals.

No changes needed in the modern method for making popovers, even though you add wheat germ. Once upon a time, cooks used to beat the yolks and the whites of the eggs separately when whipping up the batter for popovers. But this method went out of style years ago because its totally unnecessary.

Nor do the eggs need to be beaten for a long time, as early recipes directed. All you have to keep in mind, in our opinion, is to have the batter smooth.

Another old wives' tale you can throw out the window: the ingredients for the batter do not have to be brought to room temperature; they can come straight from the refrigerator.

Popover pans can, of course, be used for this hot bread. But if the pans are not in the house, custard cups will substitute beautifully.

FAVORITE HOT BREAD — Popovers are made with nutritious wheat germ.

WHEAT GERM POPOVERS

1 tablespoon butter
1 cup unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1/2 cup wheat germ
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dried crushed marjoram
1/4 teaspoon dried crushed thyme
3 large eggs
1 1/4 cups milk

In a small skillet; melt butter. With a pastry brush, brush entire inside surface of eight custard cups (5- or 6-ounce size) with butter. Place cups, well apart, on a large cookie sheet.

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, wheat germ, salt, marjoram and thyme.

In a medium mixing bowl beat eggs just enough to combine yolks and whites; add 1/2 cup milk and beat to combine.

Add flour mixture; beat gently just until smooth. Gradually beat in remaining 3/4 cup milk, keeping smooth and running a rubber spatula around mixing bowl once or twice. If necessary, beat until batter is an even consistency.

Fill prepared custard cups 1/2 full.

Bake (on cookie sheet) in a preheated 450-degree oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake until popped high, well browned and rigid to the touch. Lift from cups and serve at once with butter.

Makes 8 popovers.

MORE MONEY

CHICAGO (AP) — City governments, along with federal and state taxing bodies, are pulling in more and more money.

Revenues of all city governments totaled $29.7 billion for fiscal 1968-69, an increase of 11.9 per cent of $3.2 billion from the previous year.

City-imposed taxes yielded $12.4 billion, more than one half of all general revenue of city governments. Property taxes still lead as a city revenue source at $8.3 billion, Commerce Clearing House said.

INTERNATIONAL PRINTING WEEK
January 17-23
Ben Franklin Never Had It So Good!
Benjamin Franklin (1706-1790) – statesman, inventor, scientist, philosopher, but first of all a printer! Born 262 years ago this month, Franklin helped to shape the nation's progress through printing. For this reason, International Printing Week honors him each year as the patron saint of printing.
Since Franklin's time, there have been revolutionary changes in the printing process. He would hardly recognize the modern, high-speed printing machines that we have installed within the past year. But Franklin would approve the quality of the product and the pride of craftmanship that still exists among the expert printers we employ today. Our aim is to produce printing that pleases.

Former Interior Secretary Faces Shoplifting Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)–Former Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall faces a court hearing Jan. 28 on a charge of shoplifting that he attributes to absent-mindedness.

Udall, now practicing law in Washington, was arrested by a guard outside a drug store in nearby McLean, Va., Saturday after failing to pay 90 cents for some cigars.

He told newsmen later had had dropped the cigars into his pocket and then stopped for another item. At the cash register, he said, he paid for the other item but forgot the cigars.

Udall was taken to the police station, mugged and fingerprinted and charged with concealment of merchandise, which carries a fine of up to $500 and up to a year in jail. The trial date was set by a justice of the peace who released him on his own recognizance.

If the telegraph plant, or especially its leaves, is touched, the leaves quickly droop downward, like the arms of a railroad semaphore signal.

Student Arrested in Bomb Threat

POPLAR BLUFF, Jan.15.–Poplar Bluff police arrested a 15-year-old junior high school student Friday on charges the youth phoned a bomb threat to the city's high school.

The call was the third bomb threat the Poplar Bluff High School had received since Wednesday, according to Supt. Fred M. Morrow.

And the school was the third Bootheel school to receive bomb threat calls this week. Tuesday an unidentified caller phoned Campbell School, warning that a bomb was set to explode there. A caller earlier told Malden School officials the same thing.

Local police and state police searched the buildings and were unable to find any bomb.

When the first bomb threat was received at Poplar Bluff Wednesday, Mr. Morrow said, the high school's 1,600 students were evacuated and the building was searched. No bomb was found.

That call came Wednesday and, Mr. Morrow said, was made by "an adult male, according to the sound of his voice."

The call Thursday, he said, was made by a youngster. Telephone company officials were able to trace Friday's call and the junior high school student was arrested at his home.

The adult who made Wednesday's call has not been caught.

Few Workers Credit Hike In Wages to Inflation

NEW YORK (AP) — With inflation underlying almost all other problems of the nation today, here is a brief report on how Americans are dealing with this cardinal sin of economic management.

This may sound preposterous, but it was uncovered by Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan and related recently by Dr. George Katona, director of its Economic Behavior Program.

When survey respondents are asked why they are making more money than five or ten years ago, Katona says, they generally give themselves full credit and forget that inflation may have played a role.

"They commonly refer to their own efforts, to increased experience and ability, and to progress in their careers, rather than to inflation or to activities by the government or trade unions," he reports.

"Therefore, inflation is viewed as 'bad' even by people whose income rose much more than prices advanced. Inflation detracts from the satisfaction with what is seen as well-deserved fruits of one's labor."

Pay increases have been large, especially in construction.

Last year the median hourly wage increase for all industries, as extracted from 2,819 agreements studied by The Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., was 27.7 cents an hour, or 5.6 cents higher than 1969 agreements.

For construction, however, the median was 90.5 cents, and the increase over settlements made a year earlier was 20.3 cents. The big increase continues a trend that appears to have developed in 1967, as judged by BNA figures.

A review of the recent record of wage increases for all industries shows a median of 8.5 cents in 1965, 11 cents in 1966, 18.5 in 1968 and 22.1 in 1969.

The comparable figures for constructon are 17.5 cents and 19.8 cents in 1965 and 1966, respectively. In 1967 the median increase jumped to 34.9 cents, to 49.6 in 1968 and to 70.2 cents in 1969.

Recognition of persistent inflation is showing up in insurance and pension plans.

Americans are buying more variable annuities, which are insurance or pension programs that tend to offer more protection against inflation than most standard plans, which are geared to a fixed return.

Instead of guaranteeing the owner a specific return for a specific period, a variable annuity offers him an amount that may fluctuate with the stock market or the cost of living.

The variable annuity concept involes some risk, because the funds often are invested in stocks, but many individuals planning for their retirement feel the risk is worthwhile if they at least have a chance of outwitting inflation.

The Institute of Life Insurance reports that the number of groups which set up variable benefit plans by the beginning of 1970 more than doubled from the previous year.

A total of 227,000 Americans were participating in 3,849 variable plans in which funds were invested in equities, such as stocks. Another 140,700 were in plans with payouts geared to the cost of living index.

"Even greater numbers are expected to become evident once final figures for 1970 become available," the Institute said.

Quarterly Earnings
Second Highest for Ralston Purina

ST.LOUIS (AP)–Ralston Purina Co., a worldwide food and feed company, reported today its second-high first quarter earnings in history, 47 cents per share of common stock.

The earnings, said company chairman and chief executive officer R. Hal Dean, were for the period ending Dec. 31, 1970 and were exceeded only by 50 cents per common stock share one year earlier.

Sales for the three-mouth period were $430.7 million compared to $380.1 million in 1969. Net earnings were $15.2 million and those during the period one year earlier $16 million.

Spain Expected to Seek State Office

KENNETT--A Bootheel attorney and legislator is expected to file for the Democratic nomination for Missouri Attorney General. He is state Representative James E. Spain of Bloomfield, 36-year-old Stoddard Countian who began his political career in 1966 when he was elected to his first 2-year term in the Missouri House of Representatives.

When he files, Rep. Spain will already have one opponent in the 1972 Democratic primary and if successful in that contest will probably face incumbent Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth in the November general election.

The Bloomfield attorney's candidacy has some tracings to two of Southeast Missouri's most successful political candidates: Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and former Gov. John M. Dalton. Before moving to Bloomfield, Spain was a law partner with Hearnes in Charleston until the latter closed his office upon winning the office of Secretary of State in 1960. And it was John Dalton who, in 1952, won the Democratic nomination for Attorney General, a victory that was to lead to the Governor's office eight years later.

Rep. Spain is expected to file his declaration of candidacy with the office of the Missouri Secretary of State at Jefferson City in about a week or 10 days. Upon filing, he will be the second Democratic candidate for the state's top legal office. The first to file was Arch Skelton, a Springfield, Mo., attorney who was recently defeated in his race for U.S. Representative against incumbent Republican Durward G. Hall in Missouri's Seventh District.

Born Dec. 15, 1934, in Clarksville, Texas, Spain was educated in the Caruthersville public schools and then attended Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau, where he received an A.B. degree in 1955. He later enrolled in the University of Missouri law school and received an LL.B. degree in 1960.

He served in the Army from 1955 until 1957.

The Bloomfield attorney is a member of the Methodist Church, Sigma Phi Epsilon social and Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternities, both the Missouri and American bar associations and Kiwanis club.

Spain succeeded former state Rep. Tom Baker of Essex as Stoddard County's state Representative in 1966 and was re=elected to 2-year terms in 1968 and 1970. In the last seventy-fifth General Assembly, the Stoddard Countian served as a member of the Elections, Judiciary and Insurance committees in the House of Representatives.

He is a member of the Bloomfield law firm of Briney, Welborn and Spain.

Spain is the brother of Mrs. Gary B. Ryan of Kennett, wife of Kennett attorney Gary Ryan.

Thant Says He Won't Serve Beyond Term

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant declared Monday he has no intention of serving beyond the expiration of his present term at the end of 1971.

Thant, now in his 10th ygar as secretary-general, made the statement in response to a question at a wide ranging news conference. He will be 62 Friday.

He had these additional comments on international issues:

He does not favor participation of the United States or the Soviet Union in any peacekeeping force in the Middle East.

He believes that Britain and France might play such a role, but that it would be unwise to put the two super powers in a military position in such a sensitive part of the world.

He denounced acts of terrorism and "hooliganism" such as have occurred against the Soviet and Egyptian missions to the United Nations, and declared they encourage those who argue for moving U.N. headquarters out of New York City.

He disclosed the U.N. secreteriat already is preparing for the eventual admission of Communist China to the United Nations, but he does not expect this to occur before 1972.

Time Rated Ripe For Collective Farm Bargaining

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)–The president of the National Farmers Union says the time is ripe for farmers to band together to develop effective collective bargaining.

Tony T. Dechant spoke to closing sessions of the 18th annual convention of the Utah-Idaho Farmers Union.

Farmers must move now to protect the prices of their commodities, Dechant said. "Our Friends in banking and other businesses are realizing there is a definite relationship between farm income and the economy of our nation."

He said labor unions have special legislation to protect them from prosecution under anti-trust laws, he suggested that farmers seek the same kind of immunity. "I believe we can get that legislation if we try hard enough.'.

"The last Congress in effect prevented us from any chance of moving our prices upward in the next three years," he said. "All this comes at a time when the Nixon administration says it won't freeze prices and wages."

He said farmers want the restrictions applied to everyone. "We don't want the income of other parts of the nation brought down to our level, but we do want a chance to move up."

Under Twenty

by KURT LASSEN

Energetic, sparkling, vibrant young actress Marcia Rodd is a gal who likes to keep busy whether she's bouncing from movies to Broadway or doing a man's job of renovating her New York apartment. "You should see me handle a power saw," she says proudly.

Marcia's energy dates back to her childhood and was still on the rise when she trudged from high school to high school. "My father worked for an oil company," she told us, "and I'd no sooner get set in one place, make some friends and we'd move on to the next one."

She remembers Tulsa, Oklahoma most fondly. " I spent the longest time there and did great in high school dramatics. My drama teacher from Tulsa came to New York a few weeks ago and we had a wonderful reunion," Marcia told us.

Her former drama teacher also had the proud experience of seeing her pupil star in "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" on Broadway. "I'm the 'second' girl," Marcia explained, "and I'm getting ready to be second again to Candy Bergen in "T.R' Baskin" which begins shooting soon. Guess I'll bill myself as the greatest 'second girl' so people will know who I am," she smiled.

Marcia isn't always a second girl. In her first film role she stars opposite Elliott Gould in "Little Murders" which is Alan Arkin's first effort at film direction. "I come off as the only sane one in an insane family. What I finally saw on the screen wasn't at all what I thought I was doing when we shot it. But it was my first and I guess that's the movie business.

"I think Alan is going to be a great director and you've got to admit it is a real break playing opposite Elliott Gould in the very first thing you ever do in the movies."

All is not happiness and sunshine for Marcia, however, She has a small cottage retreat near the Delaware River in Pennsylvania. "They're going to dam up the river, make a huge lake and a park and my little house will be under water. I love it so much I'm thinking of having it moved."

Marcia switched from that problem back to her high school days. "I moved from Tulsa to Wichita, Kansas in my senior year and got thelead in the senior play. I think a lot of girls hated me for it. That couldn't have happened at Tulsa because there you started at the very, very bottom and worked your way up from sweeping the stage to a part in a play."

Northwestern University was Marcia's next stop where she studied under Alvina Drause. It was her tenth school, she recalls, so adjusting to a new situation was no problem. Nor was getting into the world of real work. Her first week in New York she landed a small role in off-Broadway's "Oh Say Can You See" and she's managed to keep busy ever since.

"If you are an actress,"she said, "you are only an actress when you're working. When you aren't working, you're really nothing. Writers are writers, artists are artists, but an actor out of work is nothing. You've got to work"

Between her work, she bounces from project to project with such things as making Christmas gifts ties, needlepoint, sewing. "Anything to keep busy."

Proof of her acting ability is Marcia's ability to "look good at doing something I can't do at all." She ski-acts, tennis-acts, golf-acts. In fact, what Marcia does is what she loves to do, has always loved doing. She acts!

School Sells Three Houses

HOWARDVILLE-Superintendent George S. Reuter, Jr., has announced that the board of education, at its meeting on Tuesday night, approved the bids for the sale of three houses on the school property at Portageville.

Pete Clay was the high bidder for two houses to be removed from the school property, and V.T. Rogers submitted the high bid for the third building and lot.

New teachers have been employed by the New Madrid County R-I enlarged school district: Mrs. Dana Eades Batchelor, Lilbourn elementary school; Fred Story, vocational agriculture teacher at Lilbourn high school; and Miss Sharon Kay Vaughn, Parma elementary school.

USDA Officials To Meet With Hog Producers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials plan to meet with hog producers and industry official Wednesday to discuss the oversupply of pork and low farm prices.

The meeting was called by Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin who told a farm cooperative meeting here last week that he would seek "additional tools" for coping with the hog-price situation.

Hog prices recently have been averaging about $12 per hundred weight less than a year ago. Hog slaughter is running about one-fifth larger than at this time last year, officials say.

Details of Wednesday's meeting were not made available. One USDA spokesman, however, said it was to be on the basis of "invitation only" and that there was no intention of giving it wide publicity.

Among other solutions expected to be proposed by hog raisers is for the Agriculture Department to further increase its pork buying campaign.

This has already occurred, the department says. More than 104 million pounds of pork have been bought since last August for donation to schools and needy persons.

But many farmers and some farm-belt members of Congress say this is not enough and want the department to double its buying, to reduce the over-supply.

East Prairie Enters Contest

WASHINGTON, D.C.--The headquarters of the 1970 National Clean-Up Contest has announced the arrival of the entry from East Prairie, Mo.

That's The Law

Nudism No Bar To Police Position

Vy Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Horace was not only big, strong and good-looking. He proved to be extremely bright also. He took an examination to become a policeman and his marks placed him right on top of the list. There was one little bugaboo, however, in his getting the job. It seemed that he was a nudist. And, while that fact might not have raised eyebrows elsewhere, it certainly made them flip at headquarters.

The result? The commissioner refused to hire Horace and he took the matter to court where he demanded the job.

"We can't hire a nudist," protest I the commissioner. "It would not only embarrass Horace, it would embarrass the whole department. Can you imagine the teasing he'd take from other officers? Can you imagine his image as a nudist policeman? Can you imagene the reaction in court when an attorney asks him to give the 'bare' facts? To hire Horace is impossible."

"There nothing wrong with being a nudist," was Horace's answer. "In fact, my wife and I belong to a very reputable nudist club which boasts of members with extremely fine reputations. There isn't one person there who can't look the others in the face."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Horace an undercovered cop?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that under the Constitution, a citizen generally has a constitutional right to public employment. The fact than an applicant may be a nudist is not sufficent, standing alone, for a municipal police department to refuse to hire a prospective patrolman.

Brother's Heart Disorder Detected By Fifth Grader

WEST BEND, Wis. (AP)--Ten-year-old Steven Neumann became curious about heart beats while reading a book on the subject.

His curiosity led him to compare the heart beat of 6-year-old brother Jackie and another brother by placing his ear against their chests.

"They don't sound the same," the fifth-grader told his mother, Mrs. John Neumann, a nurse's aide.

She responded that it was Steven's bedtime and urged him to end the game. But he insisted she also listen to the "swishing sound in Jackie's chest."

"It sounded like a wet sponge does when you squeeze it," Mrs. Neumann said of the October experiment. "Steve told me his heart book said the sound was indication of a heart disorder."

The boy's suspicion's were confirmed by the family's physician and Jackie underwent a series of tests this month at University Hospitals in Madison. He will undergo open heart surgery in a few weeks.

Physicians said the 6-year-old has an enlarged heart, a pinched main artery and a hole between the lower chambers of his heart that should have closed after he was born but didn't.

The drunk driver.
He helps to eliminate the overcrowding in our classrooms.

Drunk drivers kill and injure our children.

Last year, almost 6,000 children under 15 years old were killed in traffic accidents. Countless thousands were seriously injured.

No one can be sure how many drunken drivers were responsible. But even one death or one injury is one too many.

What can you do?

Remember, it's not the drink that kills. It's the drunk, the problem drinker, the abusive drinker, the drunk driver.

Remember, drunk drivers may be sick, and we've got to give them help.

But first we've got to get them off the road. For their sake and yours.

Shortage May Prompt Doctor Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department's health chief has recommended a renewed doctor draft this year because too few medical school graduates have volunteered, the Pentagon said today.

The recommendation of Dr. Louis M. Rousselot for the first doctor draft since 1969 requires the approval of Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird. With Laird's okay, the Selective Service System can send out a call, probably early in February.

Doctors tapped would enter two years active duty this summer as officers in the Army, Navy or Air Force.

The Pentagon isn't saying how many may be drafted, but one of the reasons for a new call would be to replace many of the 1,126 doctors brought on active duty in the summer of 1968. Most are about to return to civilian status.

Congressional refusal to extend the draft law beyond its July 1 expiration date could create a barrier, but this is not considered likely.

A fresh doctor draft levy, after lapse of a year, would hardly enhance the image of a Pentagon moving toward an all-volunteer armed force.

But the need "to insure that adequate health services are available for our armed forces," as the Defense Department put it, appears likely to force the move.

Rousselot, assistant secretary of defense for health and environment, made his recommendation after two warnings to the medical community last spring and summer.

In an open letter last August, Rousselot reported a 40 per cent falloff in voluntary applications. This decline was believed to total more than 2,000 medical school graduates.

In an interview, Rousselot indicated the situation has not improved since his last warning went out five months ago.

He said young doctors apparently have been enamored by talk about ending the Vietnam war and the draft.

The doctor draft has been relied on for most of the last 20 years or so to obtain enough doctors for the armed forces.

Registration For Night Courses On Thursday

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Registration for the 23 undergraduate courses to be offered at night during the spring semester at Southeast Missouri State College will be held Thursday on the third floor of Kent library, beginning at 7 p.m.

Fields in which the courses will be given include business administration, data processing, earth science, education and psychology, industrial and technical education, sociology, and speech.

Dr. David Strand, dean of the college, said evening courses generally begin at 6:30 or 7 p.m. and meet only one night of the week usually. He emphasized that for an evening course to remain on the schedule, at least 15 students not enrolled for a full load during the regular class day must sign up for it.

Students wishing to take evening courses on a part-time basis still must meet the minimum entrance requirements of full-time Southeast Missouri State students.

The first meeting of the semester for evening courses will be the week of Feb. 1.

Dean Strand said all evening classes are scheduled to meet a certain night, Monday through Thursday, but that the night the class meets is subject to change at the discretion of class members and the instructor.

The deadline for registering for a night course is the beginning of the third session of the class.

Rocket-Firing Gunships Used by U.S. in Laos

SAIGON (AP) — Official sources revealed a bit more today about the American air war in Indochina, reporting that the United States is using rocket-firing helicopter gunships in Laos in direct support of Laotian ground troops fighting North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao forces.

The sources said Army, Air Force and Marine helicopter gunships have been supporting the Laotian troops for some time, and are attacking enemy troops and supplies along the Ho Chi Minh trail through southeastern Laos.

The U.S. Command said 13 helicopters have been lost over Laos since last March 10, when it began reporting aircraft losses in Laos.

Sources said the United States is conducting one of the biggest aerial campaigns of the war in Laos, using B52 strategic bombers, tactical fighter-bombers, gunships and reconnaissance aircraft with special top secret equipment. The aim is to slow the flow of North Vietnamese troops and war materials into Laos, Cambodia, and South Vietnam, and to prevent the Communist forces from establishing sanctuaries in the three countries.

Disclosure of the helicopter activity in Laos came on the heels of an announcement Monday that U.S. helicopter gunships are attacking enemy forces in Cambodia in support of South Vietnamese forces there.

A Defense Department spokesman in Washington also reported that American helicopters are ferrying South Vietnamese troops into the battle to clear Highway 4 in southern Cambodia, but the U.S. Command said today this was not correct. The command said however, that such assistance to the South Vietnamese was "within the guidelines laid down for the use of U.S. air power to prevent the re-establishment of sanctuaries in Cambodia."

Meanwhile, 6,000 South Vietnamese troops launched a major new drive on both sides of the Cambodian border about 75 miles northwest of Saigon. A spokesman said the aim of the operation in Tay Ninh Province is "secure the area where there are enemy battalions present."

U.S. helicopter gunships operating in the region on the Vietnamese side of the border killed 24 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in one action five miles from the border, spokesmen said. South Vietnamese militiamen reported killing 35 more enemy soldiers in ground combat, while suffering three militiamen killed and six wounded.

The stretch of border is the same in which U.S. and South Vietnamese troops made one of their major drives into Cambodia last spring to clean out enemy supply caches and sanctuaries. The area includes the socalled Fishhook and Dog's Face sectors just north of War Zone C.

The U.S. Command announced that B52 bombers attacked North Vietnamese and Viet Cong positions inside Cambodia for the first time in nearly a week. The command would not disclose the location of the strikes, but other sources indicated they were not along Route 4, where a joint South Vietnamese-Cambodian operation was continuing in an effort to reopen the highway between Phnom Penh and the coast.

The Cambodian command backed off from its claim Monday that its troops had captured Pich Nil Pass, on Route 4, 60 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, and said government troops were conducting sweeping operations around Pich Nil.

Today the spokesman in Phnom Penh claimed that less than 10 miles of the 115-mile highway was still in enemy hands.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported from Route 4 that 5,000 Cambodian troops were stalled at the entrance to Pich Nil pass and that more than 1,000 South Vietnamese marines with their artillery had been airlifted to the Cambodian garrison at Kompong Seila, 15 miles farther along the highway, in a new attempt to get the road clearing operation moving again.

Jensen said there was no evidence of any enemy resistance at Pich Nil pass, but the Cambodians at the north end appeared to be waiting for South Vietnamese from the south to push through the seven-mile-long pass.

U.S. Cobra gunships and A37 fighter-bombers attacked alongside the pass throughout the day, Jensen said, but their targets were obscured by thick jungle.

Four Youths Arrested after Vandalism

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Four Notre Dame high school pupils are facing charges of breaking and entering a schoolhouse following a "day and night investigation" by Cape Girardeau police into the Saturday morning vandalism at Jefferson Elementary school and Notre Dame.

Arrested Sunday night were: Gregory C. Buehrle, 18 of 1301 Cousin; Ronald F. Bohnert, 18, of 1426 Perry; Daniel J. Wengert, 17 of 2620 Maria Louise, and David L. Frey, 17, of 919 South Ellis.

Police said Buehrle, Bohnert and Wengert are facing two charges of breaking and entering and Frey is facing one. He allegedly took part only in the Notre Dame break-in, officers said.

All four were being held in the Cape County Jail at Jackson. Magistrate Roland G. Busch set bond on each charge at $250 cash or $500 property.

Lt. Wm. Stover of the Detective Division today said investigation is continuing. He indicated that more youths may have taken part in the vandalism at both schools.

Cape County Prosecuting Atttorney A. J. Seier said if police learn anything was taken from either school, felony charges would be filed against any or all of the youths.

School officials say nothing is missing. Total damage was estimated at $5,100.

State Welfare Process Draws Close Scrutiny

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Federal officials placed Missouri's welfare process under scrutiny today in a hearing in the Kansas City office of the department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The question: Is Missouri in compliance with federal welfare standards?

At stake is $179 million in federal assistance to state-run programs.

The controversy surfaced last spring when the Missouri Senate Appropriations Committee sliced $3.1 million from state Medicaid funds. The legislative action was followed in July by an announcement reductions were being made in the federally sponsored, state-administered Medicaid program.

Ten young men were nominated to compete with other Missouri nominees for seven vacancies at the United States Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, New York.

POW Camp Rescue Bid Fruitless

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers guarded by U.S. helicopter gunships, raided a suspected prisoner of war camp inside Cambodia where 20 Americans were believed held but found it empty, Vietnamese sources said today.

The raiding party, however, captured 30 enemy soldiers, the sources reported. The raiding party was led by Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri, leader of South Vietnam's Cambodian campaign last spring.

The raid took place Sunday and lasted three hours.

"It worked perfectly," said one officer. "We suffered no casualties."

The raid was based on intelligence that American prisoners were being held in an area west of the Cambodian town of Mimot along Highway 7. Mimot is 75 miles northwest of Saigon and about five miles inside Cambodia.

The sources said a fleet of South Vietnamese helicopters landed about 300 paratroopers with U.S. helicopter gunships escorting them.

American ground advisers accopanied the paratroopers to the border.

The operation recalled the unsuccessful raid Nov. 21 by helicopter-borne American commandos on the Son Tay prisoner of war camp 20 miles west of Hanoi in North Vietnam. Elite, highly trained soldiers made both raids.

In both cases, they found no American prisoners as expected but the operations were carried off with precision.

From time to time, there have been intelligence reports that Americans captured in South Vietnam were held in border camps in Cambodia. The number was never believed to be large.

Sources would not say whether the camp in Cambodia had been recently occupied or whether it had been hastily abandoned.

Three-Year Term For Jail Break

BENTON--Henry Watson, 22, Sikeston, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary Monday for attempting to break out of the Scott county jail on Nov. 15.

The jail break occurred when Watson and jailmate, James Schakleford, Sikeston, sawed through bars. They were forced back inside the jail by Deputy Sheriff Jack Stewart, who fired a warning shot as they attempted to come out the front door.

Watson was in jail on a parole violation in connection with the shooting of a brother in Sikeston. He also was being investigated for writing two bad checks in Sikeston. He was not tried for these offenses.

Judge Marshall Craig sentenced him.

Dexter Water and Sewer Rates Raised

By BRENDA MOCK

DEXTER--Water rates were raised $1.10 per 1,000 gallons and sewer rates were raised a minimum of 36 cents per month by the Dexter city council last night.

The average user of water and sewer facilities will pay approximately 87 cents more per month.

The previous water rates were 55 cents per 1,000 gallons bringing the current rate to $1.65. The previous sewer rates were a minimum of 18 cents per month bringing the current sewer rates to a minimum of 54 cents per month.

The council lowered the minimum amount of water being used per month from 3,000 gallons to 2,000 gallons.

Mayor Willis Connor justified the raise in rates by explaining the city needs a new fire truck, a new fire station on the north side of the railroad tracks and a new water plant.

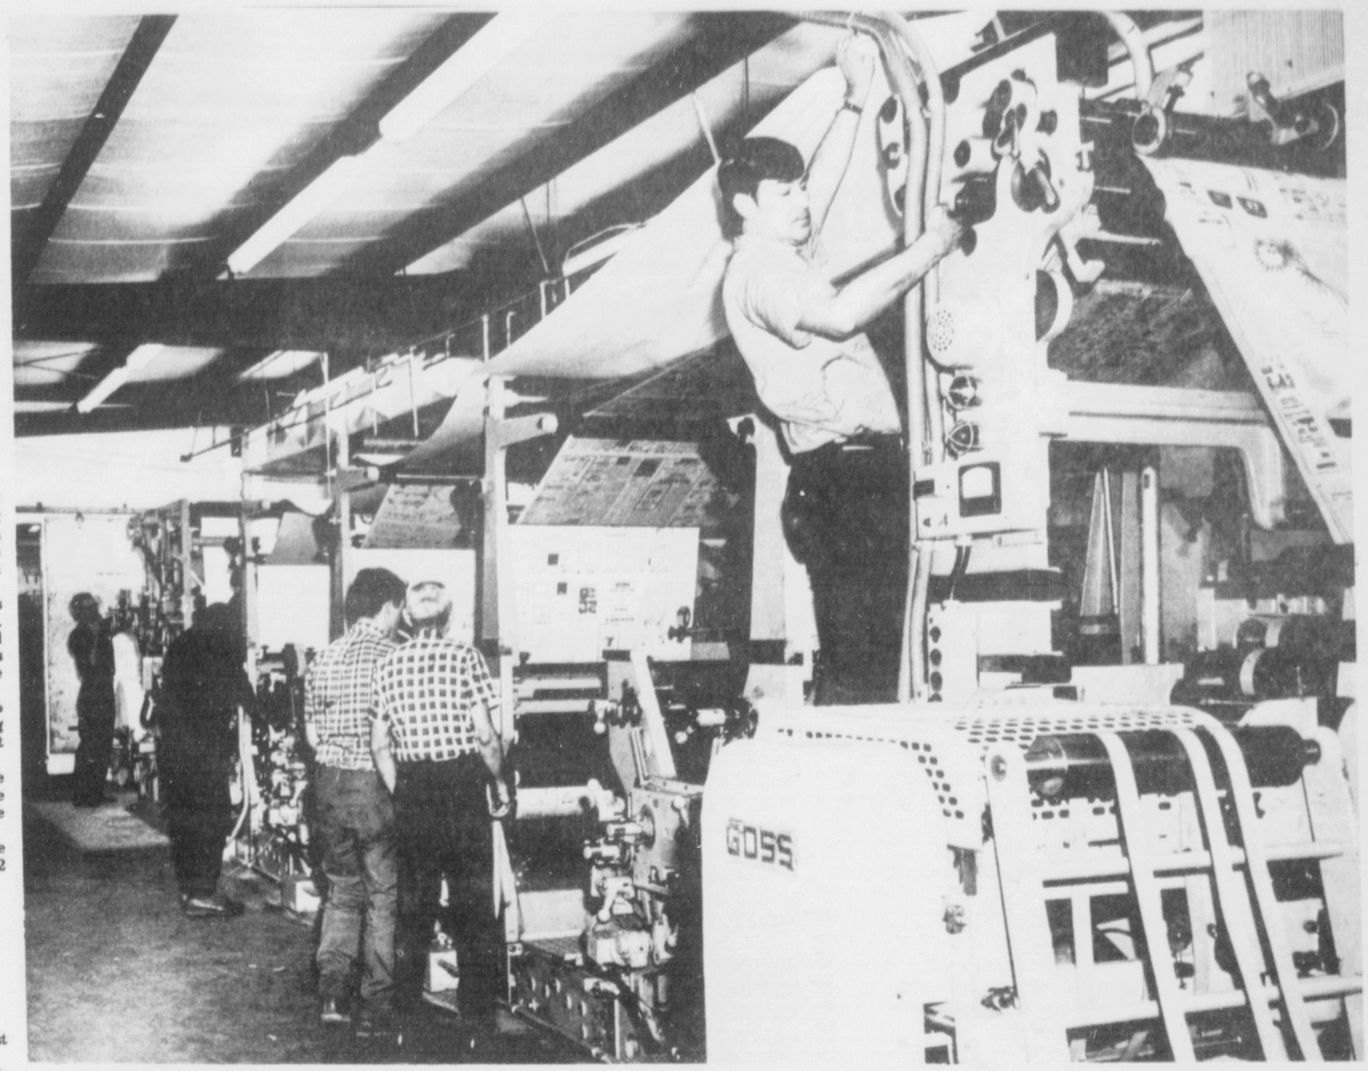

He said the old one pumps only 75 per cent of its capacity.

R. E. Atkins of Dexter asked the council for renewal of his liquor and tobacco license. The council renewed it.

Connor asked the council to consider getting a new meeting table. The council decided that the old table was satisfactory.

City Attorney Paul McGhee presented a bill for a copy of the Missouri Utilities rate increase hearing for $172.10.

The council will review the audit of the city at the Feb. 2 meeting.

State Agency to Fight Crime Urged

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—A bill to attack organized crime with a state agency like the FBI was introduced in the Missouri Senate Monday.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, DCape Girardeau, a former FBI man, said the proposal has been endorsed by all law enforcement agencies, including the state Sheriffs' Association. It was recommended recently by a special task force on organized crime.

The agency would be called the Missouri Intelligence and Investigation Division. It would be bipartisan, headed by a director and could include 20 agents, two attorneys and an accoutant. The agency would report directly to the attorney general.

Spradling said the agency would be organized like the highway patrol — half of the employes Democratic and half Republican.

The cost was estimated at $347,000 for the first year, going up to $525,000 by the third year.

Sen. Donald Manford, D-Kansas City, introduced a bill to provide stiff penalties for illegal use of fire bombs or other explosives. Penalties would range from five years for property damage up to life imprisonment if a bomb killed or injured someone.

A bomb threat would be punishable by one year imprisonment or a fine of $1,000 or both.

Two sales tax bills also were introduced.

Collector's Office Probe Continues

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Thomas R. Gilmore said this morning a final decision has not been made in the investigation into the tax collector's office prior to the Jan. 6, 1970 resignation of Aubrey Micheal.

Gilmore said he is preparing a report on the investigation to be made "real soon" to members of the county court on "just what the present situation is."

Asked what the report would include, Gilmore replied he would rather wait until he gets it prepared.

"I've got lots of ideas but not in finished form yet," the prosecutor said.

During the investigation Gilmore has not been able to determine whether he will request a grand jury to assist him.

Sheriff John Dennis said his office is "still checking" the Collector's office, including the Dec. 8, 1969 reported armed robbery. J.W. "Dub" Shuffit, then deputy collector, said a lone gunman accosted him late at night in the court house and took about $3,100.

Audits by the state disclosed shortages totaling $109,000 in the collector's office for 1965-69. Michael has made settlement for the $109,000, but where the money went has not been reported by officials.

$50 Million Increase in Plant Cost

NEW MADRID--The board of aldermen announced today that Burns and McDonnell Engineering Company, Kansas City, construction engineer for the city of New Madrid, has informed the board that the cost of constructing the 600 megawatt steam electric generating plant at St. Jude industrial park, now in process, is estimated to have increased approximately $50 million from the original cost estimate.

As a result, R. W. Beck and Associates, Seattle, consulting engineer for the city, estimate that the city of New Madrid will have to issue completion bonds of approximately $60,000,000.

The completion date is set for April of 1972.

Fire Razes Car, Four Gas Pumps

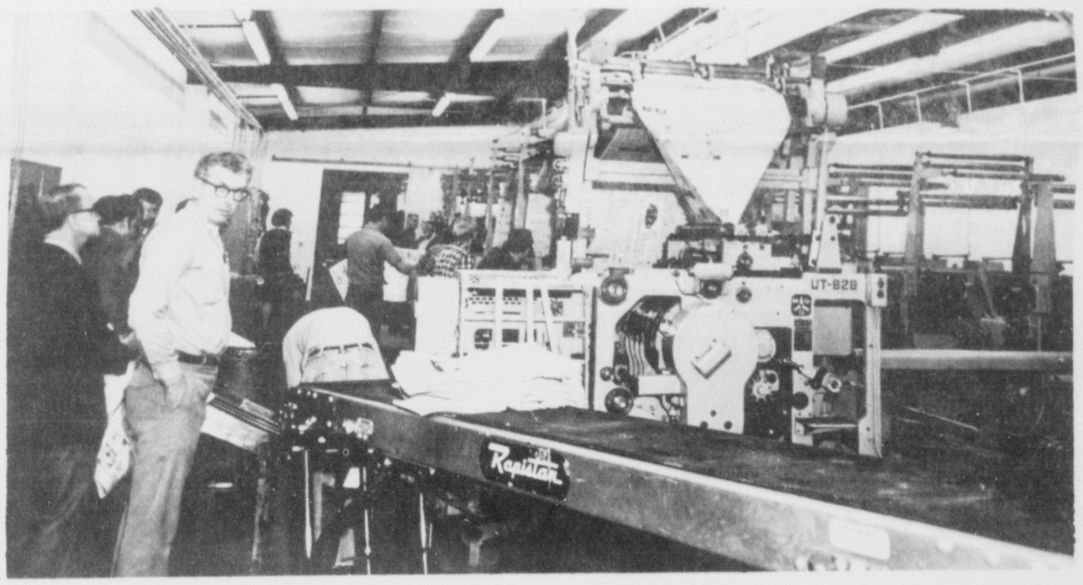

PORTAGEVILLE--A car and four gas pumps were destroyed Monday in a fire at 7:50 a.m. at Texgas service station one half block north of Main Street on highway 61.

Fire Chief Jitney Foster said the fire was started when a car driven by Justin DeLisle struck and knocked over a gas pump.

The driver and two passengers were "lucky to get out alive", Foster said.

Quick response by 13 volunteer firemen and the use of foam and high pressure fog were credited by Chief Foster with preventing a greater fire.

No injuries were reported. Damage to the building was limited to one broken window and scorching.

Indiana stands to lose $39 million a year and Nebraska $15 million under the major welfare program – aid for dependent children (AFDC).

New, Larger Press Goes into Operation

A two unit Goss Suburban offset press of 28-page capacity was placed in operation at the Daily Standard for the first time Monday.

Planning for the new press with a speed of 20,000 newspapers per hour and three-color capacity, began last summer when arrangements were completed to build a press room to house all 70,000 pounds of it.

The press arrived in November.

The press takes the place of the first offset unit of 16 pages, that was placed in Operation Aug. 10, 1964.

A four-page unit was added in January of 1965.

The old unit continued to function without difficulty. Why the new press was installed was explained by Allen Blanton, vice president in charge of the commercial printing department and of the Standard Publishing company. He said: "The old Color King, with its 20-page capacity has served its purpose well for over six years and made millions of printed impressions but the folder was inadequate when there were 18 or 20 pages.

"The new Goss Suburban press," Blanton said, "can run as two individual presses, separately or together, one a 12-page unit, and the other as a 16-page unit. The old press made two runs necessary, but now one unit sends the folded first section into the completed second unit fold, doing away with inserted sections inthe circulation department.

"The increase in business necessitated the enlarged press, which is now all automatic, together with many added safety devices."

The period of installation took six weeks and was under the supervision of Dick Perkins, Terry Shirley, both erectors for the Inland Machinery company, Kansas City, and Jack Bramble, head of Inland's offset department.

The building contractors were Cowan and Holman; Hambrick Electric, and Hazel Williams, plumbing contractor, all of Sikeston.

The press is installed in seven units, with the first line being four units of four pages each, and parallel to a three units of 12 pages, with a unitube folder capable of handling ten webs of paper, and folded either a half or quarter fold.

The three - unit section, is capable of handling four rolls, and also folded half and quarter size, and then passed over to the unitube folder, for the finished product. The paper rolls are now placed above each other instead of a long horizontal position as on the old press.

New engineering features are on the press, with a side register on both plate cylinders. All cylinders are of solid steel and chrome plated resist rust and corrosion caused from chemicals used in offset printing

Each plate cylinder has bearers that provide accurate setting for the required pressures between cylinders and with an automatic plate lockup device that saves the pressman extra time.

The ink flow is placed on each of the seven units that feeds a continuously without handling by the pressman. It is geared to the speed of the press, as are the water fount feeds to the wells, guaranteeing equal flow and pressure according to the press speed.

LOOKING OVER THE FIRST COPY that came off the Goss Suburban offset press Monday afternoon is Allen Blanton, vice president of the Standard Printing Company.

Burglars Often Hear Most Music from Stereo Tapes

By MIKE JENSEN

Stereo tape players and tape cartridges are one of today's hottest selling items in Sikeston but they have also been tagged as the leading cause behind a sharp increase in burglaries.

In 1970 there were 63 reports of stolen tape players in Sikeston and hundreds of tape cartridges. The total loss from these items was $7,571.53, which accounts for 31 per cent of the thefts of more than $50.

In 1969 only 42 tape players were stolen. This averages a theft every nine days. This figure rose to an average of one theft every six days in 1970 and in 1971 the total has risen to a tape player theft every 33 hours.

This amount of property loss does not include damage done to the vehicle in stealing the tapes. Automobiles have broken windows and convertible tops are destroyed when thieves enter the cars.

If the present rise in thefts continues, 1971 could see property losses in the tens of thousands of dollars.

The penalty for the theft of a stereo tape player is severe yet this has little effect. The maximum sentence on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle is five years in the penitentary. The maximum sentence for stealing over $50 is two to 10 years in the penitentary with a $1,000 fine.

The owners of tape player suffers the most. Rises in insurance premiums and noncoverage policies have added to the problems of the tape owner.

Many companies refuse to cover tape players or they raise their premiums to cover any loss. Even if the insurance company agrees to cover the lost tape, it is often depreciated to a degree that compensation is only a fraction of the original cost.

It was estimated that a tape cartridge depreciates 50 per cent after being used once and a tape player depreciates at a rate of two per cent each month.

Police Sgt. Leonard Campbell said that he has had some success in recovering the stolen items but often because of lack of identification, tapes are not recovered.

Some observers say that an organized gang is stealing the tape players and selling them to individuals for a quick profit but all observers concede that without owner cooperation the problem will continue.

Campbell suggests three steps that tape owners should take to prevent theft:

Car doors should be locked to discourage thefts. Many potential thieves will not risk breaking into a car but if the car is unlocked this is an open invitation to theft.

Tape cartridges should be kept in a glove compartment, console or box out of the view of a passerby. Many tape cartridges, left lying in the seat of a vehicle, are stolen every day.

Tape owners should mark their tape cartridges with a permanent identifiable sign. Every tape contains a serial number, but it often is easily removed making the owner defenseless to theft.

Individuals should scratch initials or serial numbers on each tape.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

A woman's faith in her husband is built on solid rock if her mother visits in her home as long as three weeks and fails to shake it.

ARE COMMUNITS BORN?

There are many theories as to why some people (a very small percentage) become Communists. One of the most common (and thoroughly discredited) ideas is that people become communists because they are poor, or hungry, or "underprivileged." But now the official Communist propaganda rag, the "Daily World," has come up with what may be a new theory. The "World" recently featured a headline which read: "Communist Forces Multiply." One would presume that as the result of a membership drive, additional members had been added to the roll of traitors to the United States. But this did not turn out to be the case.

The story which followed reported that on one day in the month of December, 1970, three babies were born to Communists parents in the New York City area. The father of one, a girl, reported The World is Jose Ristorucci, 27, Communist chairman of Manhattan. Her mother was identified as the "National Co-Chairman of the Women's Commission of the Communist Party."

On the same day, a boy was born to Fred Halper, New Jersey Daily World "Press director," and his wife, Louise Halper, a former employee of the Daily World. And, last, it was reported that Mrs. Fred Davis, identified by the World as a "former staff writer," gave birth to a son.

If we are to accept the Daily World report at face value, it suggests that the Marxists-Lenninists are in agreement with yet another theory of their ideological cousins, the Nazis; to wit, since both the mother and the father have "communist blood," the baby is therefore a pure-blooded Communist. Heil the new Master Race!

Most of us, however, will stick to the old-fashioned idea that Communists are not born; but that Communists have to be made. If these three infants grow up to hate America and worship the Soviet dictatorship, it will be because of the false and evil ideas implanted in their minds by indoctrination, and not because of their blood, or their race, or their economic status.

Meanwhile, the Paris talks stumble along and official memory is clouded by the "complexities of negotiations," else something might be done about the North Vietnamese who agreed not to shell South Vietnamese cities, in return for the bombing halt. The cities have been shelled, Americans have been killed, the North's supplies still stream to the south, etc. etc. etc., and North Vietnam now says, "What agreement not to bomb and not to shell?"

A....NEW... AGNEW?

Neither friend nor foe will quarrel with Vice President Agnew's description of his spokesman for the administration in an election year." Now Agnew is preparing to step into a new, more dignified task. He is scheduled to fly to Atlanta on Wednesday, Jan. 27 to drumm up support for President Nixon's federal-state revenue-sharing plan among members of the National Association of County Executives. Several similar meetings between the Vice President and state and local officials are on tap in the near future.

Nixon told a nationwide television audience on Jan. 4 that the revenue-sharing plan he will submit to Congress this year goes "far beyond any proposal we have made to this date." In other words, the 1971 administration proposal will be more costly than that of 1970, which would have begun by turning over $500 million a year in federal revenue to the states. That amount would have risen to $5 billion annually after five years.

Revenue-sharing has broad bipartisan support. Around 200 House members are reported ready to sponsor the administration bill. The trouble is that some of the most influential figures in the House are opposed, including incoming Speaker Carl Albert (D Okla.), and Reps. Wilbur D. Mills (D Ark.) and John W. Byrnes (R Wis.), chairman and ranking Republican of the Ways and Means Committee. "I'm not going to be a tax collector for anyone but the federal government," Mills recently (Jan. 8) told the Washington Evening Star.

The fact that Agnew apparently is going to be chief lobbyist for the revenue-sharing plan suggests that Nixon is less than sanguine about its being approved. No one expects a President to be so altruistic as to let the Vice President take credit for the success of a major undertaking. If by some chance revenue-sharing shows promise of winning congressional approval. Nixon no doubt will relegate Agnew to the familiar vice presidential role of understudy.

WE SHOULD MAINTAIN STRENGTH

Negotiate from a position of strength and you are in position to call the tune, but negotiate from a position of weakness and you can do little more than take dictation.

There are those in the United States today who want our country simply to be able to take dictation. This would be a tragic position in which to find ourselves, for the communists, the ones with whom we are seeking to negotiate in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks, are ruthless and amoral, and dedicated to gaining their objectives at all costs. The only thing they respect is superior strength, and thus they would not hesitate to dictate harsh terms if they should ever feel they had gained real superiority in strength over the United States.

Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina makes this point in discussing the reasons why the United States could continue with its plans for the Safeguard ABM and the MIRV deployment.

"These systems," says Senator Thurmond, "are the two best bargaining weapons America has in negotiating a reduction in strategic arms at the SALT talks now in session in Vienna. Full support of U.S. intentions to deploy MIRV and the ABM will place the United States in a strong position to trade with the Soviets In my opinion, it would be foolish to give away our trump card in advance."

The Columbia, South Carolina, Record commented editorially on this same issue, as follows:

"Despite the best efforts to make the issue of national defense understandable, some critics of U.S. defense spending absolutely refuse to understand even a little about the subject. It suffices for their pupose to lament the 'military- industrial complex,' having done which they retire from debate, satisfied at a job well done.

"The subject, needless to say, is considerably more complex than they imagine. Likewise, considerably more important, for if the SALT talks in Vienna fail to make pacifists of the Soviets, the nation must fall back on the Pentagon for whatever security it may enjoy in the years ahead.

"Yet the giddy feeling persists that the Pentagon should declare a moratorium on defense work for the duration of the Vienna talks. Senator Edward Kennedy, for example, declared in a speech that Defense Secretary Laird's insistence on the Safeguard ABM system and MIRV warheads is 'undermining attempts' to get an international agreement on disarmament. The MIRV, a cluster of warheads in one rocket, particularly alarms him."

He charged that large - scale deployment of MIRV by the United States would probably so alarm the Russians that they would revert to a launch- on- warning system - that is, they would let their missiles go as soon as blips appeared on their radar screens which appeared likely to be incoming missiles.

The editorial continued: "If our MIRV's are that fearful a weapon, it becomes difficult to follow Senator Kennedy's logic; deployment would seem to be the best possible way of encouraging the Russians to sign a disarmament agreement... But what needs to be understood is that MIRV is not that fearful a weapon. Just the opposite, in fact.

"The chief virtue of the MIRV is its ability to penetrate an anti- ballistic missile defense, but it can do so only at a price. The price is diminished destructive power for each warhead... As a first strike weapon - one designed to knock out the enemy's hardened missile silos- the MIRV is a flop.

"In spite of this, Senator Kennedy and other critics of the MIRV insist on treating it as precisely the kind of weapon it is not.

"They also ignore, in the debate on the ABM system, the increasing Soviet fire power. In five years, the Nixon administration has recently disclosed, the Soviet Union will have 25,000 intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM's). This will be two and a half times as many as the United States will have by then. In terms of megatonnage, the Soviet missile force will outweigh the U.S. force by five or more to one. The Pentagon estimates that such a Soviet force would be able to destroy 95 per cent of America's land- based missiles."

It is up to us to make certain this does not happen. Only the United States is capable financially and productively of maintaining the kind of defense necessary against Red aggression.

It has been extremely fortunate for the people of the United States that the doves of the Revolutionary War period did not prevail. There were doves then, but they were called Tories.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

One of the general criticisms of our times is that nobody listens anymore. This is true. You would think that people who talk to themselves would at least always have an interested audience of one. But they don't. They can't even hold their own attention, and rarely appear to hear what they are saying to themselves.

Ever notice how many grown young women retain the trancelike childhood habit of toying with a curl with one finger while nibbling with her lips at the thumb of the other hand? I always feel like going out and buying them a box of lollipops.

A secretary never forgets a boss who brings her one small red rose on her birthday, but the one she remembers most warmly is the one who sends her a great big check.

You can guarantee failure for the guy who spends more time watching a clock than the fellow who's in line for his job.

The Lord does many things to keep a kind of balance in the world. That must be why He often puts freckles on the nose of girls with knobby knees, dimples in the cheeks of those with bowlegs, and a big loud mouth in girls with pretty shapes and faces.

There's one advantage to these wide new neckties some men are letting their wives and daughters talk them into wearing: they make a man look silly — but they do seem to cut down on the number of chest colds he catches.

The situation still hasn't thawed out in the home of a friend of mine who doesn't like frozen foods. All he gave his wife for Christmas was a new icepick.

Speaking of foods, one of my biggest problems with my cat is trying to get her to eat leftover stubs of dried salami. My refrigerator is full of them, and if the cat doesn't develop an appetite for them soon, I may have to sew them together and make a quilt.

Isn't it odd that in an emergency, it's always the old maid in the office—not the pretty young things in the stenographic pool—who always have a safety pin in her desk?

If people could be arrested for their thoughts, most women would be held for murder; most men would be charged with—well, just for what you suspect they would.

The worst thing about having to wear dentures is that they whistle loud enough to attract attention at a cocktail party, but not loud enough to call a cab when you leave.

MORE INTEREST REVENUE FOR STATE

Governor Warren Hearnes' proposal to the General Assembly for enactment of legislation that would require banks to bid competitively for deposits of state funds should be supported.

Such a plan could bring the state hundreds of thousands of dollars in added interest revenues and end the practice of assigning state funds to banks on the basis of politics alone.

These should be certain provisions, however, to insure a fairly even distribution of state funds around the state and to assure smaller banks a fair share of deposits.

Big banks could be prevented from getting more than their fair proportion of state funds by dividing banks into three or more categories of size for the competitive bidding for state funds.

A reasonably fair geographical distribution could be accomplished by alloting amounts to various sectors of the state, based upon the number and size of banks in each sector.

INDUSTRY URGES NEW PATTERN FOR POSTAL REFORM

It is universally agreed that our postal service is in trouble and that reform is necessary.

In a statement presented to the United States Senate, the National Association of Manufacturers said that the debate is over whether to implement the postal corporation proposal or to attempt to achieve reform within the existing structure. NAM observed that, if the latter alternative were really feasible, the postal system would not be in its present plight.

The Post Office has proved to be incapable of self - support for 113 of the past 130 years and has become a continuing drain on the federal budget.

The cumulative postal deficit from fiscal 1959 through fiscal 1969 was $9.3 billion, despite rate increases for one or more classes of mail in 7 years since then.

The NAM strongly supports the basic purpose of the postal corporation which aims to provide the Post Office enterprise with the same type of management, personnel policies, and techniques that have been so outstandingly successful in American corporations. The statement said that it is logical that our society should employ the know-how developed in our commercial and industrial life to manage this function that so closely resembles a commercial or industrial enterprise. In fact, the Post Office is such an enterprise in all but form.

"There is no substitute for competent management to whom is given responsibility and authority in equal measure, as well as the prerogative of choosing between alternatives based on current and changing conditions," says NAM. "The authority to make decisions carries with it the freedom and responsibility to take risks and to be judged by batting - average performance rather than by each detail. This is inherent in the decision to purchase mechanized equipment to improve labor productivity. Industry's performance is in sharp contrast to the Post Office Department's in this regard."

"United States business management recognizes the importance of good employee relations and the effectiveness of satisfied employees, for whom opportunities for growth and progress are available," the NAM statement concludes. "The training and retraining of employees for better performance on the job and advancement to jobs on a higher level are functions common to most of American industry. We believe that H.R. 11750 would go a long way towards giving the Post Office the benefits of the management techniques employed by U.S. commerce and industry."

TOM BENTON

The man emerging from Robert Sanford's series of articles on Thomas Hart Benton is every inch a Missourian — crusty, talented, individualistic, without pretense. Mr. Benton's work has had its ups and downs in the art world, and no one now can pass final judgment on his total output. At times he has been criticized as no more than a regional artist, and of course his brother Nat and Tom Pendergast and old Judge Kirby do grace the walls of the State Capitol. But that's Missouri. There is a universality about the Missouri type and Mr. Benton has caught it. His name and his personality go deep into the history and culture of this state. Missouri is proud of him, and we can see no future time in which his accomplishments will go unrecognized in his native land. It is good to learn that there is presently a revival of interest in his paintings, and that h remains productive, and salty, the age of 81.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The plot to kill Cuban dictator Fidel Castro, hidden for 10 years from the public, raises some ugly questions that high officials would rather keep buried deep inside the Central Intelligence Agency.

1. HAS THE CIA TRIED TO ASSASSINATE ANY OTHER LEADERS? John McCone, who headed the CIA during the six attempts to knock off Castro, denied emphatically that the CIA has tried to kill anyone. But ex-Senator George Smathers, one of John F. Kennedy's closest friends, told us the late President suspected that the CIA had arranged the shootings of the Dominican Republic's Rafael Trujillo in 1961 and South Vietnam's Ngo Dihn Diem in 1963.

2. DID PRESIDENT KENNEDY PERSONALLY SANCTION THE PLOT AGAINST CASTRO? The preparations to assassinate the Cuban dictator began during the last months of the Eisenhower administration as part of the Bay of Pigs scheme. All six attempts, however, were made during 1961-63 when Kennedy occupied the White House. Smathers told us he once spoke to the late President about assassinating Castro. Kennedy merely rolled back his eyes, recalled Smathers, as if to indicate the idea was too wild to discuss. Subsequently, Kennedy told Smathers of his suspicion that the CIA may have been behind the Trujillo and Diem assassinations.

3. DID THE LATE ROBERT KENNEDY KNOW ABOUT THE ASSASSINATION ATTEMPTS? After the Bay of Pigs fiasco, President Knnedy swore to friends he would like "to splinter the CIA in a thousand pieces and scatter it to the winds." He put his brother, Robert, in charge of the CIA with instructions to shake it up. The CIA made five attempts on Castro's life after the Bay of Pigs while Robert Kennedy was riding herd on the agency.

4. COULD THE PLOT AGAINST CASTRO HAVE BACKFIRED AGAINST PRESIDENT KENNEDY? The late President was murdered nine months after the last assassination team was caught on a Havana rooftop with high-powered rifles. Presumably, they were subjected to fiendish tortures until they told all they knew. None of the assassination teams, however, had direct knowledge of the CIA involvement. The CIA instigators had represented themselves as oilmen seeking revenge against Castro for his seizure of oil holdings.

DID PLOT BACKFIRE?

Former associates recall that Robert Kennedy, deeply, despondent, went into semi-seclusion after his brother's assassination. Could he have been tormented by more than natural grief? He certainly learned that the assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald, had been active in the pro-Castro movement and had traveled to Mexico to visit the Cuban Embassy a few weeks before the dreadful day in Dallas. Could Bob Kennedy have been plagued by the terrible thought that the CIA plot, which he must at least have condoned, put into motion forces that may have brought about his brother's martyrdom?

The last surviving brother, Senator Tom Kennedy, D—Mass., could give us no insight. His brothers had never spoken to him about any assassination attempts against Castro, he said. He was aware, he volunteered, only that Senator Smathers had talked to the late President about eliminating Castro.

Smathers told us that President Kennedy seemed "horrified" at the idea of political assassinations. "I remember him saying," recalled Smathers, "that the CIA frequently did things he didn't know about, and he was unhappy about it. He complained that the CIA was almost autonomous.

"He told me he believed the CIA had arranged to have Diem and Trujillo bumped off. He was pretty well shocked about that. He thought it was a stupid thing to do and he wanted to get control of what the CIA was doing."

But McCone, disagreeing vigorously, told us that "no plot was authorized or implemented" to assissinate Castro, Trujillo, Diem or anvone else.

MCCONE'S RECOLLECTIONS

"During those days of tension, there was a wide spectrum of plans ranging from one extreme to another," McCone admitted. "Whenever this subject (assassinating Castro) was brought up -- and it was -- it was rejected immediately on two grounds. First, it would not be condoned by anybody. Second, it wouldn't have achieved anything."

There was also talk in high places, McCone acknowledged of supporting a coup to oust Diem. The former CIA director said he had argued against this at a secret sesssion with both Kennedy brothers. He had contended that there was no one strong enough to take Diem's place and that a coup, therefore, would bring "political upheaval."

"I told the President and Bobby together," recalled McCone, "that if I were running a baseball team and had only one pitcher, I wouldn't take him out of the game."

The November, 1963, coup caught the U.S. completely by surprise, he said. While the plotters were moving on the palace, he said, then Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was visiting Diem. Admiral Ulysess Sharp, then our Pacific commander, had also been present, but had left early to go the airport.

McCone said President Diem escaped through a tunnel but was caught in nearby Cholon and "shot in a station wagon."

STEEL PRESSURE

President Nixon jolted the steel industry with his threat to import foreign steel, if necessary, to drive down steel prices. His tough statement was intended, in part, as a precedent for bringing presidential pressure upon the steel workers.

They will set the pattern for more than five million more workers whose contracts will be renegotiated this year. The steel workers union will negotiate for 400,000 workers in the steel industry and another 25,000 in aluminum, can, copper and other non-ferrous industries. At least half a dozen other big unions will be watching the steel workers settlement before they press their own demands.

A new round of wage increases could send the economy into another inflationary spiral. The President, therefore, is eager to hold down the steel workers' pay raise. He could hardly oppose a wage increase, however, if he acquiesced to a price increase by the steel companies.

In the past, President Nixon has been reluctant to use his office to pressure labor and management to accept more moderate settlements. The inflation threat is so serious, however, that he is now changing his attitude. But, he still will not go so far as to press for wage and price controls.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

PRESIDENT CRISES CATCHING: Nixon Considering Calling Home Front Summit Conference To Devise Wage-Price Freeze.

WASHINGTON -- Richard Nixon is winding up for the pitch he'll be making at private White House luncheons and utterly off-the-record, eyeball-to-eyeball talks with labor and business leaders in coming weeks. He does believe he must do something about wages. So he is jawboning prices.

But he's a very cool political twirler. He knows exactly to whom he's p[illegible]hing. So he's conditioning himself for some tough action. But what action? No one seems to be able to control the rank and file today -- a rank and file whom one of the nation's top, truly top, labor chiefs called "wild Indians" recently. So the strategy seems to be -- build up the game and the players so they stand high in their own leagues. Handle the crisis by averting it -- is President Nixon's psychology.

There is White House consideration, the force of a home-front summit. This might just about do it if the rank and file can be convinced that their wage demands – soon to be rip-roaring across the land with a series of national strikes following in a burst of turbulence -- will wash out the value of the dollar.

Richard Nixon doesn't come to all this as a novice. Especially on the steel front. Back in 1959 he was President Eisenhower's labor trouble-shooter. The nation then was hit by a national steel strike. When "Ike' ' was pressured to interven he said "see Dick."

So it was in late December of that year that the then vice president called in U.S. Steel's chief executive, the gentle-voiced Roger Blough, the equally soft-voiced labor lawyer Arthur Goodberg, the silver-haired, pipe-smoking steel union leader Dave McDonald, and the genial Irish Secretary of Labor Jim Mitchell. They talked in Mr. Nixon's home for many long hours.

Later the Vice president dispatched Jim Mitchell to Arthur Goldberg to ask the man who soon was to go on to the labor secretaryship, the Supreme Court and the U.N., just what it would take, rock bottom, to settle the strike before it crippled the nation.

Mr. Goldberg consulted with his client. He then conferred with Jim Mitchell and wrote out the rock bottom settlement price on a slip of paper. This was handed to Richard Nixon. The vice president rushed up to New York. He talked with his friend, counsellor William Rogers (who presumably discussed it with Thomas E. Dewey). Mr Boough was, of course, consulted.

There was agreement. Mr. Nixon returned to Washington. The final settlement was made in the Bethlehem Steel Corp. headquarters here.

Later in January, the crisis averted, Dick Nixon sat with some friends a reminisced. He would be runni for president, he reckon against Jack Kennedy. And if were elected, he said, he wo solve labor crises by calling labor and management leaders sit, confer and reason things together.

He knew the la movement then -- all the v from Walter Reuther, w whom he corresponded, George Meany, whom he gotten to know while presidi over a White House state din during one of Presid Eisenhower's illness.

So, being crises-pro aware of the toughness of la and the ability of industrial such as Roger Blough to t quickly into men of steel, Nixon is well equpped for w faces him -- and the nation.

There will be more st threats than Vice President Sp Agnew has alliterations.

Daughters of Isabella of St. Francis Xavier church, Sikeston, sponsors the Scott county Mothers March of Dimes. At the Jan. 6 meeting, Dorthy Turner was appointed Sikeston Mothers March chairman. Mrs. P. J. Schlosser is Scott county campaign director, her third year in this post.

The March of Dimes Mothers March will be conducted house to house Monday evening. The county-wide goal is $5000. One-third of the funds collected will be retained in the county and will provide help for anyone with a birth defect or any former polio victim who is in need of treatment or equipment.

The other two-thrids of the funds will be used to support three area treatment centers, Children's Hospital and Cardinal Glennon Children's hospital, both in St. Louis, and the University of Missouri-Columbia Medical Center treatment area, Columbia.

During 1970, Scott county sent seven children to the St. Louis treatment centers. A wheel chair was provided for a former polio patient. Another former polio patient was sent to Warm Springs, Ga., for treatment baths.

The March of Dimes was begun in honor of the late Franklin Delano Roosevlet, a former president of the United States and a polio victim. The Mothers March is scheduled on the Monday before Jan. 29, the birthday anniversary of this late statesman.

Hayti Pads Lead

Only six minor and one major change were recorded in this week's Daily Standard basketball poll after weekend balloting by a panel of 15 coaches.

Undefeated Hayti added another first place vote to its credit, sporting nine of the 15 possible, and have moved ahead by 43 points over its nearest competitor.

The only noticable change among this week's poll is the addition of Lilbourn to the elite and the dropping of unbeaten Van Buren from the number two slot to fourth after two near losses in the Doniphan invitational last week.

Notre Dame and Dexter advanced to second and third to make room for the Bulldogs in fourth while Charleston, Parma and Richland held down their respective fifth, sixth and seventh places of a week ago.

North Pemiscot, who lost its third game of the season last week, tumbled from eighth to a 10th place tie with Lilbourn while Leadwood and New Madrid advance one place after holding down ninth and 10th respectively last week.

Each member of the poll is scheduled for action this week with Hayti and North Pemiscot being the only members to have two games scheduled.

Highlighting the schedule is the collision between the Indians and Mustangs tonight at Hayti. While another top game shapes up as Richland goes to Matthews.

Hayti, besides hosting North Pem tonight, will host Clarkton Friday while the MPHS cagers go to Portageville.

The only other game scheduled by a poll member tonight is Dexter's hosting of Bloomfield, while the remaining elite have Friday and Saturday evening engagements.

Van Buren goes to Ellington; Parma host Holcomb; Leadwood takes on Ste. Genevieve; New Madrid is at Twin Rivers and Lilbourn entertains Sikeston in Friday battles.

Charleston will host West Memphis in Saturday's only contest.

Cornhuskers Honored

LINCOLN (AP) — Some 2,000 persons turned out Monday night to honor Nebraska's first national champion football team.

Robert Johnson of New York, general sports editor of the Associated Press, presented the undefeated cornhuskers—11-0-1 for the season—the traveling trophy signalling Nebrsska's No. 1 national rating in the final poll of sports writers and broadcasters. The trophy becomes the permanent possession of any team winning it three times.

Johnson also presented to coach Bob Devaney a permanent possession plaque emblematic of the honor.

Speaker for the Pershing Auditorium honors banquet, attended by 1,600 diner and some 400 more persons who paid $2 apiece for spectator privileges, was football coach Dee Andros of Oregon State, a former assistant at Nebraska.

"I know the price you paid to get as far as you got," Androse told team members and coaches. "I know the amount of sacrifive that each and every man on this team made, and I know the dedication which you had to yourself and to your coaches and to your alumni that took you all the way.

"Some people will say you had some breaks to get there. Gentlemen, I know you had some breaks to get there—you have to have breaks to be a champion. But nothing is ever given to you. You earned everything that you got."

Gov. J. J. Exon commissioned all team members admirals in the mythical Nebraska Navy and said they "have done more in a short year to put Nebraska on the map than any other effort that has ever taken place."

The Guy Chamberlain trophy named for a Nebraska superstar of the 1913-15 era was presented to split end Guy Ingles.

Optimist Clubs of Lincoln presented trophies to Ed Periad as the outstanding senior defensive lineman, to All-American Jerry Murtaugh as the outstanding senior defensive back, to Ingles as the outstanding offensive lineman, and to co-captain Dan Schneiss as the outstanding senior offensive back.

Coach Devaney, the nation's winningest major head coach, described himself as "humble and thankful." He said he firmly believes the 1970 Cornhusker team to be "the finest I've ever had the opportunity of being a part of."

Radio KFOR sportscaster Dick Perry of Lincoln served as master of ceremonies.

PHS PIRATES

PARMA— Coach Bill Caston's PHS Pirates made their final preparations for next week's New Madrid County Tournament with last night's 87-68 conference win over the visiting Tigers of Risco. It was win number fourteen for the eighteen game season, and moved the Pirates into a three way tie (5-1) with Lilbourn and New Madrid in the conference campaign.

After a slow moving first quarter of play, the Panthers seemed to find the range on their own nets, pouring their way past the Tigers in a 23-14 second quarter uprising. Behind the rebounding and scoring tactics of the Panthers' David Wright, Joe White, and David Williamson, the Panthers took the lead and increased it in each of the remaining quarters.

Teammates Williamson and White were tops in the scoring department with 29 and 24 respective points, while grabbed 15 and 17 rebounds each. Rounding out the Parma scoring attack where James Pope, who finished with 10 points and an important 15 rebounds, and David Wright with 17 big tallies.

Randy Terry handled the Tigers scoring honors with his 24 point finish, while Darryl Wood and John Bunting turned in respective marks of 17 and 10 points. Risco managed a good showing from the free throw line for the night, as they put through 15 out of 20 shots.

Risco picked up the earlier JV match over the junior Panthers a close 66-63 battle. A scoring combination of Johnson with 28 and Wilson with 15 netted the JV Tigers the victory.

A four man scoring attack, Wagner and Barnes with 15, Scott with 12, and Gaines with 11, paced the JV Panthers in the contest.

SPORTS CORNER

Ron Jaynes

WE DIDN'T REALIZE how many readers we had of our column until our two week layoff of predictions...The response for its return has been great.

Thank you.

Our figures for the season read 87 of 119 for something over 70 percent...not bad considering the caliber of the teams this season and the fact that we've discarded our eight ball, mustic pipes and other "sometime" helpful material.

So, here's the way we see tonight's outcome from the sports desk.....

BLOOMFIELD AT DEXTER—Coach Jim Hall's Bearcats are improving with every game while the Wildcats have been up and down all season... They'll certainly be down tonight...DHS 77, Bloomfield 52.

NORTH PEMISCOT AT HAYTI—What's happened to the once potent Mustang offense, which averaged nearly 100 points through its first eight games? Have they reached their peak too soon? Those are the questions tossed around by many SEMO fans....They must snap out of it tonight though if they plan on repeating as Bootheel champs...The Indians are unbeaten and have a victory over North Pem....Coach Bill Beck's Tribe have improved with every game, although they've played some close battles...they seem to play just hard enough to win...They'll have to put out a little extra tonight though.....North Pemiscot 67, Hayti 66.

RICHLAND AT MATTHEWS—Coach Al Gilliams quintet are due to surprise someone, and the coaches of the New Madrid county conference hopes its before next week's tourney or after...It's not likely tonight, but don't bet on it...Richland 71, Matthews 67.

PUXICO AT BELL CITY—The Cubs are another team that's due for a surprise win...It might come tonight...We think so....Bell City 69, Puxico 63.

GIDEON AT HOLCOMB—Coach McMahon has the biggest team of his 40 years of coaching and they have been improving with every game...GHS has been hard to figure out...Thus leaving us a hard game to predict, but a stab says.....Holcomb 71, Gideon 66.

TWIN RIVERS AT MALDEN———Many have thought the Royals to be just another so-so team, but most had better re-evaluate the situation...They are big and are improving with each game...The Green Waves had better watch their steps....Malden will prevail however... MHS 68, TRHS 65.

SOUTH IRON 63, ELLSINORE 56

COUCH 72, BIRCH TREE 67

BERNIE 65, CAMPBELL 59

DELTA C-7 71, CLARKTON 55

FREDERICKTOWN 77, ST. VINCENT 60

SENATH 66, KENNETT 63

DONIPHAN 59, NEELYVILLE 57

FLAT RIVER 78, POTOSI 71

Scott-Miss. Tourney DELTA VS. I-SC—Little has been heard from the Bobcats of late. Coach Pete Townsend's team will be heard of before the tourney colcludes...Delta 70, I-SC 50

ORAN VS. EAST PRAIRIE—Something tells us that the Eagles might be up for this contest and the tournament. OPPS...We mean both flocks...EPHS was very impressive in its last outing while OHS has been just up and down since the Christmas tournaments....This will be a close battle...and we see—Oran 64, East Prairie 63.

SCOTT CENTRAL VS. CHAFFEE—Has the Red Devils offense really come around? It ran over 100 points on the board in one of its most recent contest...The Braves are our pick to upset the tournament seeds...wait and see....Scott Central 83, Chaffee 69.

THAT'S ALL....

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — There was so much difference in ages that it could have been a Father-Son awards night. But both men were star quarterbacks honored as outstanding players of the year.

George Blanda, at 43 still a pressure kicker and a solid backup quarterback for the Oakland Raiders, and Jim Plunkett, still a Stanford College student, received Maxwell Club awards here Monday.

Plunkett, Stanford's hotshot passer who earlier received the Heisman Trophy, was given the Maxwell Award for the college player of the year.

Blanda, who got the Bert Bell award as pro player of the year said he would continue playing pro football "as long as I can contribute to the Raiders' success and meet with the approval of coaches."

ST.LOUIS (AP)–Four more players have returned contracts, bringing to 17 the number signed for the coming season, the St. Louis baseball Cardinals said Monday.

Contracts were received from pitcher Frank Linzy, infielder Milt Ramirez and outfielders Jim Beauchamp and Jose Cruz, the Cardinals said.

Linzy had a 3.69 earned run average in 47 games last season. He was obtained from San Francisco in May.

Ramirez, a 20-year-old right-hand batter obtained from Baltimore was used as backup to shortstop Dal Mxvill last season.

Beauchamp, 31, signed with the Cardinals as a free agent in 1958. He played for Milwaukee, Atlanta, Cincinnati and Houston before returning to the Redbirds.

Cruz, 22, batted .300 for Arkansas in the Texas League last year. He bats left-handed.

Twins Assault Irish

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The ninth-ranked Fighting Irish of Notre Dame ran into a full-Nelson Monday night—two of them, in fact—and were pinned with their fourth defeat of the college basketball season.

Unranked Duquesne's 6-foot10 Nelson twins went to work on the Irish and wrestled away an 81-78 overtime victory. Garry Nelson led the Dukes with 22 points, including four in the overtime period after brother Barry tied the score at 69-all with one minute left in regulation time.

Notre Dame battled back from a 12-point deficit midway through the second half and surged in front by three points with two minutes remaining before the Nelsons put the Irish down for the count.

Jarrett Durham added 20 points for Duquesne while Austin Carr had 31 and Collis Jones 27 for Notre Dame, which held onto ninth place in this week's Associated Press poll despite a loss last week.

The only other teams in the Top Ten to see action Monday night were fifth-ranked Kansas, which opened its Big Eight campaign with an 83-57 rout of Iowa State, and 10th-rated St. Bonaventure, an 80-67 loser to No. 14 Villanova.

The Jayhawks, up from eighth place a week ago, ran their record to 12-1 behind the hot shooting of Bud Stallworth and Dave Robisch. Stallworth connected on seven of eight shots in the first half as Kansas rolled to a 43-27 lead and Robisch took over in the second half to tie Iowa State's Gene Mack for scoring honors with 21 points.

Villanova, which dropped one spot to 14th despite two victories last week, raced to a 20-9 spread over St. Bonaventure and the Bonnies never got closer than six points thereafter.

A tenacious zone defense limited the losers to seven baskets in 38 first-half shots and knocked them out of contention. Villanova's Howard Porter and St. Bona's Dale Tepas shared scoring honors at 22 points.

The Bonnies, idle last week, had climbed from 12th to 10th in the poll.

In other key games, deliberate Clemson gave Tates Locke his 100th coaching triumph by upsetting North Carolina State 59-50 in the Atlantic Coast Conference and Barry Cohen's timely free throw shooting in the final two minutes preserved Georgia's 77-76 South-Eastern Conference win over Auburn. John Mengelt of the losers was held to 11 points, his lowest total since his sophomore year.

Colorado fought off a late Oklahoma State rally and edged the Cowboys 62-59 in Big Eight play. Florida State turned back tough little Stetson 78-71 and Murray State downed Bradley 79-71 in overtime.

The top four teams in the poll were unchanged. UCLA received 26 of the 28 first-place votes and 552 points and was trailed again by Marquette, Southern California and Pennsylvania. Marquette received the other two first-place baliots and cut UCLA's lead from 85 points last week to 58.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Kansas, Jacksonville, Western Kentucky, Tennessee, Notre Dame and St. Bonaventure.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP) — Tyler Palmer, a 20 year-old rookie on his first European circuit, defeated a 13-nation mens special slalom field Sunday to give the United States its first World Cup victory of the Alpine ski season.

With a dazzling second run, Palmer, a high school senior from Kearsage, N.H., raced through the finish with a total time of 88.27 seconds for the two-leg event. That was comfortably ahead of Austria's Harald Rofner in 89.01 and Italian slalom ace Gustavo Thoeni in 89.27

With Hank Kashiwa, of Old Forge, N.Y., seventh and Rick Chaffee of Rutland, Vt., eighth, the U.S. squad continued its recent surge.

Colts Look For QB

MIAMI (AP) — Quarterback insurance is high on the priority list of Baltimore's pro football champions today as they turn their attention from UUPER Bowl to the upcoming National Football League draft.

But, with geriatric wonders Johnny Unitas and Earl Morrall apparently set for another whirl in 1971, Colts Coach Don McCafferty isn't anxious to make a premium payment by breaking up his old gang.

"We'd like to get a good, young quarterback, but not at a high price that would break up this team," McCafferty said Monday as the Colts, savoring their 16-13 Super Bowl conquest of Dallas, prepared to make the most of the $15,000 winners' share and their new-found place in the sun.

A contingent of players and their wives headed for a Bahamas vacation. Three standouts —Bubba Smith, Mike Curtis and Jerry Logan—have playing dates in Sunday's Pro Bowl AllStar game at Los Angeles. And Unitas, a second-quarter casualty in the Super Bowl, was due to undergo further tests on his damaged ribs.

It will be back to business for the tall, soft spoken McCafferty, a Baltimore assistant coach for 11 years before directing the Colts' redemption crusade in his first year as head man.

"The players are on their own," he said, "but we have to start working on the draft for next week."

On the agenda for the Colts' brain trust are further discussions with the Boston Patriots, who have the top pick in the draft—and the first crack at Jim Plunkett, Stanford's Heisman Trophy winner, or another of 1970's blue chip college quarterbacks.

"We have talked several times with Boston, but only in general," said Colts General Manager Don Klosterman. "No specific players were discussed. We asked the Patriots not to do anything until after the Super Bowl so we would have a fair shot. They agreed."

The Colts, whose fourth-quarter comeback against the Cowboys gave them a measure of revenge for a 16-7 loss to the New York Jets in Super Bowl III two years ago, will draft 26th. But Commissioner Pete Rozelle also has awarded them the No. 22 pick, from Miami, as a "tampering" penalty against the Dolphins for luring coach Don Shula away from Baltimore.

That would include Unitas, 37, and Morrall, 36, who have played 15 pro seasons each and don't plan to call it quits.

Ann Landers

Desire For Death Causes For Serious Over-eating

Dear Ann Landers: Why didn't you tell "Worried In Seattle," -- the woman who said her husband is killing himself with food, -- that he wants to die. I know what I'm talking about because I am that man -- and there are many others like me.

My religion forbids divorce so there's no way out for me. My marriage fell apart a long time ago. Home, to me, means nagging, complaining, endless arguing and screaming. The tension and hostility is indescribable. My wife has managed to kill any sexual desire I might have had. When I look at her now it's difficult to believe I ever wanted her.

Eating is the only pleasure left in my life. In the 24 years we've been married I have never cheated on my wife. She has soured me so throughly on the entire female sex that any thought of another woman is just as nauseating as the thought of her.

If obesity will shorten my life I say, "Pass the second piece of pie-a-la-mode." It's too late to give me any advice, Ann Landers, but if you have a comment I'd like to hear it. ---Two-Ton-Tommy

Dear Tommy: Your admission that you want to die, comes as no surprise to me. The only thing that surprises me is that you recognize the motivation behind your excessive eating. Most compulsive eaters aren't so introspective. I am NOT talking about people who are 10 to 20 pounds over weight, I mean people who should lose 50 or 75 pounds.

The person who likes himself takes care of himself. Individuals who eat too much and drink too much, or mess around with drugs, are subconsciously trying to achieve one goal -- self destruction.

You didn't ask for advice so I won't offer any. Furthermore I suspect you know the solution but you'd rather keep on doing what you're doing. So to you I say, good luck and farewell.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been out of town for several days but my wife saves your column for me. I hope I.m not too late to offer a workable solution to the barking dog problem. This is how we did it.

My wife and I were becoming literally worn out from a lack of sleep. The dog next door howled and barked regularly from about 2:00 a.m. until 4:00 a.m. We reviewed several alternatives and settled on a diplomatic solution which was not entirely cricket -- but we were desperate.

That night we telephoned the neighbor promptly at 2:15 a.m. after about 15 minutes of barking. A very sleepy man answered. I said in a polite voice, "you dog is barking." He replied, "WHAT?" I repeated, "Your dog is barking." He hung up. Three minutes later the barking stopped.

The next night the barking began on schedule. I made another telephone call. Same message. Same response. Within ten minutes the barking stopped. The dog started to bark again at 5:00 a.m. I tekephoned once more, and again the neighbor hung up on me, but I had to make only two calls after that one. We have not seen the dog since and we don't know if they still have him. But we DO know we are no longer awakened at odd hours and that's all we care about. Peace In Kansas City

Dear Peace: I see nothing "un-cricket" about your solution. Nothing succeeds like success. Thanks for sharing.

Popovers Have Extra Food Value

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press Food Editor

It's lovely to find a recipe that adds nutrients and flavor to an old standby.

What's in the oven? Popovers, that favorite American hot bread. And what's added? Wheat germ, that rich source of vitamins and minerals.

No changes needed in the modern method for making popovers, even though you add wheat germ. Once upon a time, cooks used to beat the yolks and the whites of the eggs separately when whipping up the batter for popovers. But this method went out of style years ago because its totally unnecessary.

Nor do the eggs need to be beaten for a long time, as early recipes directed. All you have to keep in mind, in our opinion, is to have the batter smooth.

Another old wives' tale you can throw out the window: the ingredients for the batter do not have to be brought to room temperature; they can come straight from the refrigerator.

Popover pans can, of course, be used for this hot bread. But if the pans are not in the house, custard cups will substitute beautifully.

FAVORITE HOT BREAD Popovers are made with nutritious wheat germ.

WHEAT GERM POPOVERS

1 tablespoon butter
1 cup unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
1/2 cup wheat germ
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dried crushed marjoram
1/4 teaspoon dried crushed thyme
3 large eggs
1 1/4 cups milk

In a small skillet; melt butter. With a pastry brush, brush entire inside surface of eight custard cups (5- or 6-ounce size) with butter. Place cups, well apart, on a large cookie sheet.

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, wheat germ, salt, marjoram and thyme.

In a medium mixing bowl beat eggs just enough to combine yolks and whites; add 1/2 cup milk and beat to combine.

Add flour mixture; beat gently just until smooth. Gradually beat in remaining 3/4 cup milk, keeping smooth and running a rubber spatula around mixing bowl once or twice. If necessary, beat until batter is an even consistency.

Fill prepared custard cups 1/2 full.

Bake (on cookie sheet) in a preheated 450-degree oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake until popped high, well browned and rigid to the touch. Lift from cups and serve at once with butter.

Makes 8 popovers.

MORE MONEY

CHICAGO (AP) City governments, along with federal and state taxing bodies, are pulling in more and more money.

Revenues of all city governments totaled $29.7 billion for fiscal 1968-69, an increase of 11.9 per cent of $3.2 billion from the previous year.

City-imposed taxes yielded $12.4 billion, more than one half of all general revenue of city governments. Property taxes still lead as a city revenue source at $8.3 billion, Commerce Clearing House said.

INTERNATIONAL PRINTING WEEK
January 17-23
Ben Franklin Never Had It So Good!
Benjamin Franklin (1706-1790) – statesman, inventor, scientist, philosopher, but first of all a printer! Born 262 years ago this month, Franklin helped to shape the nation's progress through printing. For this reason, International Printing Week honors him each year as the patron saint of printing.
Since Franklin's time, there have been revolutionary changes in the printing process. He would hardly recognize the modern, high-speed printing machines that we have installed within the past year. But Franklin would approve the quality of the product and the pride of craftmanship that still exists among the expert printers we employ today. Our aim is to produce printing that pleases.

Former Interior Secretary Faces Shoplifting Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)--Former Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall faces a court hearing Jan. 28 on a charge of shoplifting that he attributes to absent-mindedness.

Udall, now practicing law in Washington, was arrested by a guard outside a drug store in nearby McLean, Va., Saturday after failing to pay 90 cents for some cigars.

He told newsmen later had had dropped the cigars into his pocket and then stopped for another item. At the cash register, he said, he paid for the other item but forgot the cigars.

Udall was taken to the police station, mugged and fingerprinted and charged with concealment of merchandise, which carries a fine of up to $500 and up to a year in jail. The trial date was set by a justice of the peace who released him on his own recognizance.

Student Arrested in Bomb Threat

POPLAR BLUFF, Jan.15.--Poplar Bluff police arrested a 15-year-old junior high school student Friday on charges the youth phoned a bomb threat to the city's high school.

The call was the third bomb threat the Poplar Bluff High School had received since Wednesday, according to Supt. Fred M. Morrow.

And the school was the third Bootheel school to receive bomb threat calls this week. Tuesday an unidentified caller phoned Campbell School, warning that a bomb was set to explode there. A caller earlier told Malden School officials the same thing.

Local police and state police searched the buildings and were unable to find any bomb.

When the first bomb threat was received at Poplar Bluff Wednesday, Mr. Morrow said, the high school's 1,600 students were evacuated and the building was searched. No bomb was found.

That call came Wednesday and, Mr. Morrow said, was made by "an adult male, according to the sound of his voice."

The call Thursday, he said, was made by a youngster. Telephone company officials were able to trace Friday's call and the junior high school student was arrested at his home.

The adult who made Wednesday's call has not been caught.

Few Workers Credit Hike In Wages to Inflation

NEW YORK (AP) — With inflation underlying almost all other problems of the nation today, here is a brief report on how Americans are dealing with this cardinal sin of economic management.

This may sound preposterous, but it was uncovered by Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan and related recently by Dr. George Katona, director of its Economic Behavior Program.

When survey respondents are asked why they are making more money than five or ten years ago, Katona says, they generally give themselves full credit and forget that inflation may have played a role.

"They commonly refer to their own efforts, to increased experience and ability, and to progress in their careers, rather than to inflation or to activities by the government or trade unions," he reports.

"Therefore, inflation is viewed as 'bad' even by people whose income rose much more than prices advanced. Inflation detracts from the satisfaction with what is seen as well-deserved fruits of one's labor."

Pay increases have been large, especially in construction.

Last year the median hourly wage increase for all industries, as extracted from 2,819 agreements studied by The Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., was 27.7 cents an hour, or 5.6 cents higher than 1969 agreements.

For construction, however, the median was 90.5 cents, and the increase over settlements made a year earlier was 20.3 cents. The big increase continues a trend that appears to have developed in 1967, as judged by BNA figures.

A review of the recent record of wage increases for all industries shows a median of 8.5 cents in 1965, 11 cents in 1966, 18.5 in 1968 and 22.1 in 1969.

The comparable figures for constructon are 17.5 cents and 19.8 cents in 1965 and 1966, respectively. In 1967 the median increase jumped to 34.9 cents, to 49.6 in 1968 and to 70.2 cents in 1969.

Recognition of persistent inflation is showing up in insurance and pension plans.

Americans are buying more variable annuities, which are insurance or pension programs that tend to offer more protection against inflation than most standard plans, which are geared to a fixed return.

Instead of guaranteeing the owner a specific return for a specific period, a variable annuity offers him an amount that may fluctuate with the stock market or the cost of living.

The variable annuity concept involes some risk, because the funds often are invested in stocks, but many individuals planning for their retirement feel the risk is worthwhile if they at least have a chance of outwitting inflation.

The Institute of Life Insurance reports that the number of groups which set up variable benefit plans by the beginning of 1970 more than doubled from the previous year.

A total of 227,000 Americans were participating in 3,849 variable plans in which funds were invested in equities, such as stocks. Another 140,700 were in plans with payouts geared to the cost of living index.

"Even greater numbers are expected to become evident once final figures for 1970 become available," the Institute said.

Quarterly Earnings Second Highest for Ralston Purina

ST.LOUIS (AP)--Ralston Purina Co., a worldwide food and feed company, reported today its second-high first quarter earnings in history, 47 cents per share of common stock.

The earnings, said company chairman and chief executive officer R. Hal Dean, were for the period ending Dec. 31, 1970 and were exceeded only by 50 cents per common stock share one year earlier.

Sales for the three-mouth period were $430.7 million compared to $380.1 million in 1969. Net earnings were $15.2 million and those during the period one year earlier $16 million.

Spain Expected to Seek State Office

KENNETT--A Bootheel attorney and legislator is expected to file for the Democratic nomination for Missouri Attorney General. He is state Representative James E. Spain of Bloomfield, 36-year-old Stoddard Countian who began his political career in 1966 when he was elected to his first 2-year term in the Missouri House of Representatives.

When he files, Rep. Spain will already have one opponent in the 1972 Democratic primary and if successful in that contest will probably face incumbent Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth in the November general election.

The Bloomfield attorney's candidacy has some tracings to two of Southeast Missouri's most successful political candidates: Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and former Gov. John M. Dalton. Before moving to Bloomfield, Spain was a law partner with Hearnes in Charleston until the latter closed his office upon winning the office of Secretary of State in 1960. And it was John Dalton who, in 1952, won the Democratic nomination for Attorney General, a victory that was to lead to the Governor's office eight years later.

Rep. Spain is expected to file his declaration of candidacy with the office of the Missouri Secretary of State at Jefferson City in about a week or 10 days. Upon filing, he will be the second Democratic candidate for the state's top legal office. The first to file was Arch Skelton, a Springfield, Mo., attorney who was recently defeated in his race for U.S. Representative against incumbent Republican Durward G. Hall in Missouri's Seventh District.

Born Dec. 15, 1934, in Clarksville, Texas, Spain was educated in the Caruthersville public schools and then attended Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau, where he received an A.B. degree in 1955. He later enrolled in the University of Missouri law school and received an LL.B. degree in 1960.

He served in the Army from 1955 until 1957.

The Bloomfield attorney is a member of the Methodist Church, Sigma Phi Epsilon social and Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternities, both the Missouri and American bar associations and Kiwanis club.

Spain succeeded former state Rep. Tom Baker of Essex as Stoddard County's state Representative in 1966 and was re-elected to 2-year terms in 1968 and 1970. In the last seventy-fifth General Assembly, the Stoddard Countian served as a member of the Elections, Judiciary and Insurance committees in the House of Representatives.

He is a member of the Bloomfield law firm of Briney, Welborn and Spain.

Spain is the brother of Mrs. Gary B. Ryan of Kennett, wife of Kennett attorney Gary Ryan.

Thant Says He Won't Serve Beyond Term

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant declared Monday he has no intention of serving beyond the expiration of his present term at the end of 1971.

Thant, now in his 10th ygar as secretary-general, made the statement in response to a question at a wide ranging news conference. He will be 62 Friday.

He had these additional comments on international issues:

He does not favor participation of the United States or the Soviet Union in any peacekeeping force in the Middle East.

He believes that Britain and France might play such a role, but that it would be unwise to put the two super powers in a military position in such a sensitive part of the world.

He denounced acts of terrorism and "hooliganism" such as have occurred against the Soviet and Egyptian missions to the United Nations, and declared they encourage those who argue for moving U.N. headquarters out of New York City.

He disclosed the U.N. secreteriat already is preparing for the eventual admission of Communist China to the United Nations, but he does not expect this to occur before 1972.

Time Rated Ripe For Collective Farm Bargaining

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)–The president of the National Farmers Union says the time is ripe for farmers to band together to develop effective collective bargaining.

Tony T. Dechant spoke to closing sessions of the 18th annual convention of the Utah-Idaho Farmers Union.

Farmers must move now to protect the prices of their commodities, Dechant said. "Our Friends in banking and other businesses are realizing there is a definite relationship between farm income and the economy of our nation."

He said labor unions have special legislation to protect them from prosecution under anti-trust laws, he suggested that farmers seek the same kind of immunity. "I believe we can get that legislation if we try hard enough.'.

"The last Congress in effect prevented us from any chance of moving our prices upward in the next three years," he said. "All this comes at a time when the Nixon administration says it won't freeze prices and wages."

He said farmers want the restrictions applied to everyone. "We don't want the income of other parts of the nation brought down to our level, but we do want a chance to move up."

Marcia Rodd

Under Twenty

by KURT LASSEN

Energetic, sparkling, vibrant young actress Marcia Rodd is a gal who likes to keep busy whether she's bouncing from movies to Broadway or doing a man's job of renovating her New York apartment. "You should see me handle a power saw," she says proudly.

Marcia's energy dates back to her childhood and was still on the rise when she trudged from high school to high school. "My father worked for an oil company," she told us, "and I'd no sooner get set in one place, make some friends and we'd move on to the next one."

She remembers Tulsa, Oklahoma most fondly. "I spent the longest time there and did great in high school dramatics. My drama teacher from Tulsa came to New York a few weeks ago and we had a wonderful reunion," Marcia told us.

Her former drama teacher also had the proud experience of seeing her pupil star in "Last of the Red Hot Lovers" on Broadway. "I'm the 'second' girl," Marcia explained, "and I'm getting ready to be second again to Candy Bergen in 'T.R' Baskin" which begins shooting soon. Guess I'll bill myself as the greatest 'second girl' so people will know who I am," she smiled.

Marcia isn't always a second girl. In her first film role she stars opposite Elliott Gould in "Little Murders" which is Alan Arkin's first effort at film direction. "I come off as the only sane one in an insane family. What I finally saw on the screen wasn't at all what I thought I was doing when we shot it. But it was my first and I guess that's the movie business.

"I think Alan is going to be a great director and you've got to admit it is a real break playing opposite Elliott Gould in the very first thing you ever do in the movies."

All is not happiness and sunshine for Marcia, however. She has a small cottage retreat near the Delaware River in Pennsylvania. "They're going to dam up the river, make a huge lake and a park and my little house will be under water. I love it so much I'm thinking of having it moved."

Marcia switched from that problem back to her high school days. "I moved from Tulsa to Wichita, Kansas in my senior year and got thelead in the senior play. I think a lot of girls hated me for it. That couldn't have happened at Tulsa because there you started at the very, very bottom and worked your way up from sweeping the stage to a part in a play."

Northwestern University was Marcia's next stop where she studied under Alvina Drause. It was her tenth school, she recalls, so adjusting to a new situation was no problem. Nor was getting into the world of real work. Her first week in New York she landed a small role in off-Broadway's "Oh Say Can You See" and she's managed to keep busy ever since.

"If you are an actress," she said, "you are only an actress when you're working. When you aren't working, you're really nothing. Writers are writers, artists are artists, but an actor out of work is nothing. You've got to work"

Between her work, she bounces from project to project with such things as making Christmas gifts ties, needlepoint, sewing. "Anything to keep busy."

Proof of her acting ability is Marcia's ability to "look good at doing something I can't do at all." She ski-acts, tennis-acts, golf-acts. In fact, what Marcia does is what she loves to do, has always loved doing. She acts!

School Sells Three Houses

HOWARDVILLE-Superintendent George S. Reuter, Jr., has announced that the board of education, at its meeting on Tuesday night, approved the bids for the sale of three houses on the school property at Portageville.

Pete Clay was the high bidder for two houses to be removed from the school property, and V.T. Rogers submitted the higl bid for the third building and lot.

New teachers have been employed by the New Madrid County R-I enlarged school district: Mrs. Dana Eades Batchelor, Lilbourn elementary school; Fred Story, vocational agriculture teacher at Lilbourn high school; and Miss Sharon Kay Vaughn, Parma elementary school.

USDA Officials To Meet With Hog Producers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials plan to meet with hog producers and industry official Wednesday to discuss the oversupply of pork and low farm prices.

The meeting was called by Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin who told a farm cooperative meeting here last week that he would seek "additional tools" for coping with the hog-price situation.

Hog prices recently have been averaging about $12 per hundred weight less than a year ago. Hog slaughter is running about one-fifth larger than at this time last year, officials say.

Details of Wednesday's meeting were not made available. One USDA spokesman, however, said it was to be on the basis of "invitation only" and that there was no intention of giving it wide publicity.

Among other solutions expected to be proposed by hog raisers is for the Agriculture Department to further increase its pork buying campaign.

This has already occurred, the department says. More than 104 million pounds of pork have been bought since last August for donation to schools and needy persons.

But many farmers and some farm-belt members of Congress say this is not enough and want the department to double its buying, to reduce the over-supply.

That's The Law

Nudism No Bar To Police Position

Vy Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Horace was not only big, strong and good-looking. He proved to be extremely bright also. He took an examination to become a policeman and his marks placed him right on top of the list. There was one little bugaboo, however, in his getting the job. It seemed that he was a nudist. And, while that fact might not have raised eyebrows elsewhere, it certainly made them flip at headquarters.

The result? The commissioner refused to hire Horace and he took the matter to court where he demanded the job.

"We can't hire a nudist," protest I the commissioner. "It would not only embarrass Horace, it would embarrass the whole department. Can you imagine the teasing he'd take from other officers? Can you imagine his image as a nudist policeman? Can you imagene the reaction in court when an attorney asks him to give the 'bare' facts? To hire Horace is impossible."

"There nothing wrong with being a nudist," was Horace's answer. "In fact, my wife and I belong to a very reputable nudist club which boasts of members with extremely fine reputations. There isn't one person there who can't look the others in the face."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Horace an undercovered cop?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that under the Constitution, a citizen generally has a constitutional right to public employment. The fact than an applicant may be a nudist is not sufficent, standing alone, for a municipal police department to refuse to hire a prospective patrolman.

Brother's Heart Disorder Detected By Fifth Grader

WEST BEND, Wis. (AP)--Ten-year-old Steven Neumann became curious about heart beats while reading a book on the subject.

His curiosity led him to compare the heart beat of 6-year-old brother Jackie and another brother by placing his ear against their chests.

"They don't sound the same," the fifth-grader told his mother, Mrs. John Neumann, a nurse's aide.

She responded that it was Steven's bedtime and urged him to end the game. But he insisted she also listen to the "swishing sound in Jackie's chest."

"It sounded like a wet sponge does when you squeeze it," Mrs. Neumann said of the October experiment. "Steve told me his heart book said the sound was indication of a heart disorder."

The boy's suspicion's were confirmed by the family's physician and Jackie underwent a series of tests this month at University Hospitals in Madison. He will undergo open heart surgery in a few weeks.

Physicians said the 6-year-old has an enlarged heart, a pinched main artery and a hole between the lower chambers of his heart that should have closed after he was born but didn't.

The drunk driver.
He helps to eliminate the overcrowding in our classrooms.

Drunk drivers kill and injure our children.

Last year, almost 6,000 children under 15 years old were killed in traffic accidents. Countless thousands were seriously injured.

No one can be sure how many drunken drivers were responsible. But even one death or one injury is one too many.

What can you do?

Remember, it's not the drink that kills. It's the drunk, the problem drinker, the abusive drinker, the drunk driver.

Remember, drunk drivers may be sick, and we've got to give them help.

But first we've got to get them off the road. For their sake and yours.

Shortage May Prompt Doctor Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department's health chief has recommended a renewed doctor draft this year because too few medical school graduates have volunteered, the Pentagon said today.

The recommendation of Dr. Louis M. Rousselot for the first doctor draft since 1969 requires the approval of Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird. With Laird's okay, the Selective Service System can send out a call, probably early in February.

Doctors tapped would enter two years active duty this summer as officers in the Army, Navy or Air Force.

The Pentagon isn't saying how many may be drafted, but one of the reasons for a new call would be to replace many of the 1,126 doctors brought on active duty in the summer of 1968. Most are about to return to civilian status.

Congressional refusal to extend the draft law beyond its July 1 expiration date could create a barrier, but this is not considered likely.

A fresh doctor draft levy, after lapse of a year, would hardly enhance the image of a Pentagon moving toward an all-volunteer armed force.

But the need "to insure that adequate health services are available for our armed forces," as the Defense Department put it, appears likely to force the move.

Rousselot, assistant secretary of defense for health and environment, made his recommendation after two warnings to the medical community last spring and summer.

In an open letter last August, Rousselot reported a 40 per cent falloff in voluntary applications. This decline was believed to total more than 2,000 medical school graduates.

In an interview, Rousselot indicated the situation has not improved since his last warning went out five months ago.

He said young doctors apparently have been enamored by talk about ending the Vietnam war and the draft.

The doctor draft has been relied on for most of the last 20 years or so to obtain enough doctors for the armed forces.

Registration For Night Courses On Thursday

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Registration for the 23 undergraduate courses to be offered at night during the spring semester at Southeast Missouri State College will be held Thursday on the third floor of Kent library, beginning at 7 p.m.

Fields in which the courses will be given include business administration, data processing, earth science, education and psychology, industrial and technical education, sociology, and speech.

Dr. David Strand, dean of the college, said evening courses generally begin at 6:30 or 7 p.m. and meet only one night of the week usually. He emphasized that for an evening course to remain on the schedule, at least 15 students not enrolled for a full load during the regular class day must sign up for it.

Students wishing to take evening courses on a part-time basis still must meet the minimum entrance requirements of full-time Southeast Missouri State students.

The first meeting of the semester for evening courses will be the week of Feb. 1.

Dean Strand said all evening classes are scheduled to meet a certain night, Monday through Thursday, but that the night the class meets is subject to change at the discretion of class members and the instructor.

The deadline for registering for a night course is the beginning of the third session of the class.

Rocket-Firing Gunships Used by U.S. in Laos

SAIGON (AP) — Official sources revealed a bit more today about the American air war in Indochina, reporting that the United States is using rocket-firing helicopter gunships in Laos in direct support of Laotian ground troops fighting North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao forces.

The sources said Army, Air Force and Marine helicopter gunships have been supporting the Laotian troops for some time, and are attacking enemy troops and supplies along the Ho Chi Minh trail through southeastern Laos.

The U.S. Command said 13 helicopters have been lost over Laos since last March 10, when it began reporting aircraft losses in Laos.

Sources said the United States is conducting one of the biggest aerial campaigns of the war in Laos, using B52 strategic bombers, tactical fighter-bombers, gunships and reconnaissance aircraft with special top secret equipment. The aim is to slow the flow of North Vietnamese troops and war materials into Laos, Cambodia, and South Vietnam, and to prevent the Communist forces from establishing sanctuaries in the three countries.

Disclosure of the helicopter activity in Laos came on the heels of an announcement Monday that U.S. helicopter gunships are attacking enemy forces in Cambodia in support of South Vietnamese forces there.

A Defense Department spokesman in Washington also reported that American helicopters are ferrying South Vietnamese troops into the battle to clear Highway 4 in southern Cambodia, but the U.S. Command said today this was not correct. The command said however, that such assistance to the South Vietnamese was "within the guidelines laid down for the use of U.S. air power to prevent the re-establishment of sanctuaries in Cambodia."

Meanwhile, 6,000 South Vietnamese troops launched a major new drive on both sides of the Cambodian border about 75 miles northwest of Saigon. A spokesman said the aim of the operation in Tay Ninh Province is "secure the area where there are enemy battalions present."

U.S. helicopter gunships operating in the region on the Vietnamese side of the border killed 24 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in one action five miles from the border, spokesmen said. South Vietnamese militiamen reported killing 35 more enemy soldiers in ground combat, while suffering three militiamen killed and six wounded.

The stretch of border is the same in which U.S. and South Vietnamese troops made one of their major drives into Cambodia last spring to clean out enemy supply caches and sanctuaries. The area includes the socalled Fishhook and Dog's Face sectors just north of War Zone C.

The U.S. Command announced that B52 bombers attacked North Vietnamese and Viet Cong positions inside Cambodia for the first time in nearly a week. The command would not disclose the location of the strikes, but other sources indicated they were not along Route 4, where a joint South Vietnamese-Cambodian operation was continuing in an effort to reopen the highway between Phnom Penh and the coast.

The Cambodian command backed off from its claim Monday that its troops had captured Pich Nil Pass, on Route 4, 60 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, and said government troops were conducting sweeping operations around Pich Nil.

Today the spokesman in Phnom Penh claimed that less than 10 miles of the 115-mile highway was still in enemy hands.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported from Route 4 that 5,000 Cambodian troops were stalled at the entrance to Pich Nil pass and that more than 1,000 South Vietnamese marines with their artillery had been airlifted to the Cambodian garrison at Kompong Seila, 15 miles farther along the highway, in a new attempt to get the road clearing operation moving again.

Jensen said there was no evidence of any enemy resistance at Pich Nil pass, but the Cambodians at the north end appeared to be waiting for South Vietnamese from the south to push through the seven-mile-long pass.

U.S. Cobra gunships and A37 fighter-bombers attacked alongside the pass throughout the day, Jensen said, but their targets were obscured by thick jungle.

Four Youths Arrested after Vandalism

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Four Notre Dame high school pupils are facing charges of breaking and entering a schoolhouse following a "day and night investigation" by Cape Girardeau police into the Saturday morning vandalism at Jefferson Elementary school and Notre Dame.

Arrested Sunday night were: Gregory C. Buehrle, 18 of 1301 Cousin; Ronald F. Bohnert, 18, of 1426 Perry; Daniel J. Wengert, 17 of 2620 Maria Louise, and David L. Frey, 17, of 919 South Ellis.

Police said Buehrle, Bohnert and Wengert are facing two charges of breaking and entering and Frey is facing one. He allegedly took part only in the Notre Dame break-in, officers said.

All four were being held in the Cape County Jail at Jackson. Magistrate Roland G. Busch set bond on each charge at $250 cash or $500 property.

Lt. Wm. Stover of the Detective Division today said investigation is continuing. He indicated that more youths may have taken part in the vandalism at both schools.

Cape County Prosecuting Atttorney A. J. Seier said if police learn anything was taken from either school, felony charges would be filed against any or all of the youths.

School officials say nothing is missing. Total damage was estimated at $5,100.

State Welfare Process Draws Close Scrutiny

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Federal officials placed Missouri's welfare process under scrutiny today in a hearing in the Kansas City office of the department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The question: Is Missouri in compliance with federal welfare standards?

At stake is $179 million in federal assistance to state-run programs.

The controversy surfaced last spring when the Missouri Senate Appropriations Committee sliced $3.1 million from state Medicaid funds. The legislative action was followed in July by an announcement reductions were being made in the federally sponsored, state-administered Medicaid program.

Academy Choices Announced

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo) today announced the nomination of 50 young men from Missouri for the United States Service Academies.

A principal and nine alternates were announced for each of two vacancies to be filled by the Senator at the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland, for one vacancy at the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York and for one vacancy at the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado. Ten young men were nominated to compete with other Missouri nominees for seven vacancies at the United States Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, New York.

Nominations were made from among more than 200 candidates from Missouri who participated in a competitive examination given by the Civil Service Commission this fall. All nominees will now undergo further testing and detailed instructions will be sent directly to them by the Academies.

The nominations included: UNITED STATES NAVAL ACADEMY (2nd appointment)--4th Alternate--Willis Donald Agnew, Jr., 807 Harvard Road, Sikeston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Donald Agnew; 5th Alternate--James Darrell Davis, 1006 Mulberry Street, Poplar Bluff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Darrell Davis. UNITED STATES MILITARY ACADEMY--1st Alternate--Matthew Dale Richardson, Route three, Poplar Bluff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Richardson; 3rd Alternate--Dennis Keith Bertrand, 1325 Butler Street, Cape Girardeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Bertrand; 9th Alternate--Jesse William Nash, Route three, Kennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald William Nash. UNITED STATES MERCHANT MARINE ACADEMY--(To compete for 7 Missouri Vacancies)--Patrick Bryant Boone, Route 2, Box 294, Poplar Bluff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Boone.

Those who did not receive nominations this year, as well as those who do not win final Academy appointments, are eligible to try again next year, provided they will still be under the maximum age requirement. Those interest in re-applying or applying for the first time should write to Senator Stuart Symington, Room 229, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510, in early Spring.
